County considers managing dumps

Study would determine costs

by LEN PIZZEY
Editor

Municipal councils have been asked to back a proposed county-wide waste management feasibility study. Bicroft reeve Bill Howe, who proposed the study at a meeting of county council last Wednesday, estimated it would cost about $150,000. Ontario's environment ministry would pay half the cost, and the other $75,000 would come from county coffers.

Howe, who is chairman of the county's environmental management committee, said in an interview that councillors have been asked to take the proposal back to their municipal councils, who will vote on whether to support a county-wide waste management study. County council is expected to debate the issue at its next meeting in March. If the response from local municipalities is favourable, tenders for the study could be called this spring.

County council hired consultants to do a waste management study in 1983, but at that time the mandate was to examine individual dump sites and determine their useable life. Some of the study's conclusions no longer appear accurate in light of more stringent waste management regulations and increased use of disposal sites.

In Bicroft's case, the 1983 study projected a 20 year lifespan for the municipality's dump site. Howe said he doesn't believe that projection is accurate today. Other municipalities, whose dump sites had shorter lifespans in the 1983 study, "are in trouble now" Howe said.

In urging consideration of a county-wide system, Howe argued that local politicians must look at the needs of the area as a whole, and not confine their views merely to their own townships.

"We can't think as individual municipalities, because if we do, we're going to be sunk before we get off the ground," Howe said.

The Ministry of the Environment estimates that each person generates two kilograms — or almost four and a half pounds — of solid waste a day. If the numbers are accurate, on an average day in Haliburton County more than 22,000 kilograms of garbage accumulates, and ends up in municipal dump sites. In July and August, when the local population swells to as many as 100,000 people, up to 220,000 kilograms of solid waste may be produced.

"The numbers stagger you" said Howe.

This growing volume of garbage is putting intense pressure on many local dump sites, and councils are scrambling to find solutions.

Howe said he believes the county must start now to plan a county-wide system of handling household garbage.

"This county's bread and butter is the tourist industry, and I think we'd better look after it" he said.

A county-wide system could involve the development of new waste disposal sites determined by population density rather than by municipal boundaries. It is probable that garbage would be trucked to the sites in containers from collection stations scattered throughout the county, a system already in place in the District of Muskoka.

A county-wide system would be expensive to implement and operate, but Howe said he believes the costs may not be significantly higher than present expenditures by municipalities and the MOE to maintain the dumps scattered throughout the county. As well, a county-wide system could include opportunities for compaction, and separation of recyclable materials.

While it will be up to individual councils to decide if a study should be undertaken by the county, Howe is optimistic.

"I feel very positive about it" he said.

Chamber asks for increase in its grant

The Chamber of Commerce has asked Haliburton County council for a $108,200 grant, some $46,200 more than the county provided last year.

Chamber director Al Mayo, who made the request to council last Wednesday, said the additional funds would be used to pave the parking lot of the Chamber's office on Highway 35, purchase a new booth for the various shows Chamber personnel attend, and for increased promotion and advertising expenditures.

Last year county council gave the Chamber $62,000. In previous years it also provided additional funds for the new Chamber office building.

The Chamber's request will be considered by the county's budget committee, along with others that traditionally are made to council in the month prior to the annual budget announcement.

HAVE group will assist Nicaraguans

Haliburton County's Help A Village Effort committee has announced it will fund a gravity feed water line for the residents of a small village in Nicaragua. The project is the latest in a series of similar ventures in India and Nepal, funded by the local committee in conjunction with the Canadian International Development Agency and other relief groups.

The village, Santos Palacios, was visited recently by a number of local men who travelled to Nicaragua on a volunteer work project. They included John Beachli, Stan Coles, John Denny, Bob Fyfe, Gerry Feltham, David Phillips and Wilfred VanLieshout.

At present the village's water supply is inadequate and contaminated. The proposal backed by HAVE is to construct a covered cistern at a hillside spring, pump water to another cistern, and from there, feed it by gravity through a pipeline to six outlets in the village.

The villagers have agreed to volunteer their labour for the project.

Public can learn about AIDS

Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS), one of the most feared and misunderstood of all diseases, will be the topic of two public information nights planned by local educators and health care professionals.

Kit Pizze, head of Physical and Health Education at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, and one of the organizers of the information nights, said the purpose of the sessions is to get information out to the public about AIDS, and to explain how the topic is being integrated into health education programmes in senior elementary and high school grades.

The provincial Ministry of Education announced about a year ago that information about AIDS would be included in intermediate level health courses. A document was produced by the ministry to help educators put together course material on the topic, but no regulations were laid down about how much time would be spent talking about AIDS in Grade 7, 8 and 9 health courses.

All parents of school aged children and other interested citizens are encouraged to attend either of the iden-

ation, Sister Veronica O'Reilly, general superior of the Sisters of St. Joseph's, Barbara Dawson, chairman of the fund raising committee, and Bill Kulas, committee member and member of the board of trustees.

The campaign was a remarkable success. The total of $427,000 far exceeded the initial goal, and more pledges are still to come before construction begins later this year.

Hospital campaign ends on a note of success

After more than a year of effort and remarkable success, the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund Raising Committee was officially disbanded on Monday night, but not before campaign chairman Barbara Dawson handed over a cheque for more than $426,000 to St. Joseph's Hospital foundation president Carole Pulver.

The presentation brought an official end to the local effort to help fund an 18 bed continuing care addition to Haliburton Hospital. Funds keep coming in however, and confirmed pledges will bring the total to at least $457,000 before construction begins.

The initial goal of the campaign was $240,000 but it soon became apparent to the fund raising committee that community support for the project would result in substantially higher donations. That meant the building committee could press for a full basement under the addition, and a new target of $400,000 was set. It, too, was exceeded, and the cheque presented at Monday's wrapup evening for the campaign was for $426,581.23.

Donations to the campaign will still be received until construction

a weekend of winter excitement

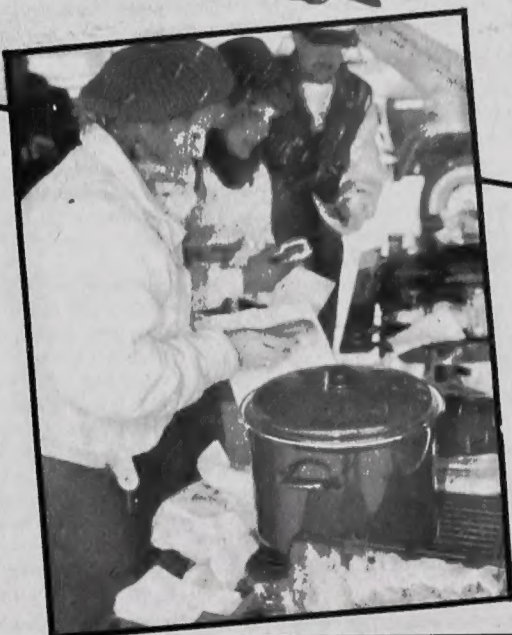

by LEN PIZZEY
Editor

An estimated 2,500 people came to Haliburton over the weekend to participate in the events of Yamafest '88, the community's first ever snowmobile festival. And though the event was not without hitches, overall it was a success, setting the stage for future winter festivals under the same basic format.

Eric Edwards, principal organizer of Yamafest, was pleased with the way things turned out, although he admitted that some events did not come off as planned, largely because of a shortage of help, combined with less than ideal weather on Saturday.

On waste

Haliburton County councillors are about to make one of the most important decisions they have faced in many years. Next month, councillors will decide whether to fund half of a proposed $150,000 feasibility study on county-wide waste management. At stake is more than the money. If they vote for the study, councillors also will be endorsing the concept of county supervised and funded landfill sites.

Because a fundamental change in the jurisdiction of waste management could eventually result from the study, county members were asked to discuss the issue at the municipal council level, and bring those opinions back to county council's March meeting. That could be viewed as a form of buck passing, but it would be fairer to see it as a prudent political tactic, in light of the issue's significance.

There is no longer any question in local politicians' minds that waste management is a major challenge, and that it will only get more complex. At present, each municipality maintains at least one dump site. The larger municipalities have several of them, each requiring maintenance, each with the potential to harm the environment if not properly managed. This system worked reasonably well in the past, but its effectiveness is now seriously strained, particularly in larger municipalities like Dysart and Minden. Local landfill sites are filling up fast, and little can be done to slow the process. More people create more garbage, and all of it eventually finds its way into local dumps — by Ministry of the Environment estimates, as much as 2.2 kilograms per person per day. Many existing sites are nearing the end of their useful life, and finding a developing a new site can take as long as five years. If steps are not taken now to address the problem, municipalities could face a crisis in waste management in the very near future.

While no one can predict with certainty what a consultants report might recommend for Haliburton County, it is possible to hazard some reasonable guesses.

Firstly, waste management will have to be looked at as a collective problem, rather than as one facing individual municipalities. A township with a dump site that is good for another 20 years would have to reject the parochial view, and be willing to assist others through county funding. No one could opt out of a county wide waste management system.

Secondly, the consultants are likely to recommend that one or more major landfill sites be developed in the near future, according to population density rather than municipal boundaries. Such sites, while expensive to develop, would open the door to compaction, recycling, and perhaps controlled incineration, as regulations permit.

Thirdly, the consultants may recommend a system of containerization at various points throughout the county. This system is already in use in other areas, notably the District of Muskoka. It might prove costly to operate, but would ensure reasonable convenience for property owners in all parts of the county.

None of these changes would be easy to bring about, and all of them would involve a major commitment of dollars not only from the Ministry of the Environment, but from local taxpayers as well. The fact is, however, that there are no other choices, if we wish to protect the environment that is so much a part of the area's economic future.

A proud day

The people who attended a wind up dinner for the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund committee on Monday night had reason to be proud of their accomplishments. Hard work and commitment to the cause produced remarkable success, in the form of more than $427,000 which was turned over to the St. Joseph's hospital foundation.

There are other people, however, who have equal reason to be proud. They are the hundreds and thousands of local citizens, seasonal residents and community minded citizens who took an idea and made it a reality, who opened their wallets and donated their time and skills to make the campaign a success. It was a remarkable achievement.

LETTERS

from Echo readers

To the Editor:

Thank you so much for running the article "Breaking the Silence" in the February 17 issue of the Echo. I have always enjoyed reading the Echo and now I know why. There are good people behind it.

Martha Perkins did an excellent job in putting my story together in print.

Not only did I "Break The Silence" but so have you and your staff and I'd like to thank you all for supporting this social problem.

Yours truly,

'Elizabeth'
Haliburton County.

Thank you

To the Editor:

In the past you have published many letters from people who have been touched by the care and concern one receives by living in a small community. My staff, students and I would like to express our thanks through your newspaper.

The Olympics has been celebrated at Victoria Street School with a torch relay, street parade, electives in music, art, cooking and fitness and finally with Olympic games in our school yard complete with gold medal presentation to all students.

This has been possible through the co-operation and generosity of the members of our school community.

Our sincere thanks to Wayne Wood and the Council for their motion of road closure on February 17th for our downtown parade. Thanks to Sgt. Wm. Bailey for sending Constable Mike Maybee and R. J. Wood to lead and protect us in our parade. Thanks to Mavin Varty and Joyce Bain for our taped music for marching. Thanks to Anne Schell and Jane Heyes for producing 200 dough medals. Thanks to Ann Schell and Wanda Reynolds for carrying our Celebration 88 flag which was supplied by Bill Scott M.P. Mr. Scott and his secretary were also responsible for supplying us with 200 Canadian pins and beautiful Olympic posters.

Thanks to Bruce Malott (our Howdy) for his tractor and trailer and to Chris Postlethwaite for helping Bonnie Fitzgerald and Eric Thompson complete our float. Thanks to Chris Bishop for the loan of his video camera (we are recorded for history). Thanks to our custodian Ed Davis for his help securing lumber and cartons from Newbatts and Black's Hardware.

A special thanks to all our parents who marched with us or cheered us along the way. We had great fun. Many thanks to all.

Ruth Gorrie, Staff and students of Victoria Street School.

Apartment woes

To the Editor:

It makes me sick when we have worked so hard to get apartments in Kinmount, to read that Minden has two and is going to get another, and we can't get one. What's happening to this part of our country? Is it all for who you know? Some can't get a place to live, and the M.P.'s promised to help. But what can we expect; every time you turn on TV dishonesty in our government.

The Royal Canadian Legion Branch 441 has spent $1500 and I don't know how much time and dollars I have spent. We have the land and the sponsors and we got over our quota. I would like to know what more they want.

Yours truly,
Violet Cooke,
Irondale, Ontario.

Efforts appreciated

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Haliburton Heritage Committee, I would like to thank you for all your support and the excellent coverage that you gave our events.

We were extremely pleased with the response to our efforts and the number of people who participated in our events.

Were it not for your interest, excellent photos, and the articles you included in your paper, the outcome of the Heritage Week Events would not have been the same. Once again, I would like to thank you for promoting heritage interests in our community.

Sincerely,
T. Ballantine,
Haliburton Highlands Museum.

FEIR PLAY

by Creighton Feir

IN SPEAKING from time to time with various people from different areas of Haliburton County I come away with the feeling that most local citizens are interested in the local economy and they are always wondering what we can do to improve it, especially during the winter months. They all seem to realize that we must do something to offset the winter months and to give us a better year round economy. Some people mightn't agree but it is my opinion that the winters are getting better and that we are all doing more business now. Take this winter for instance. Sir Sam's Ski Area at Eagle Lake is breaking all attendance records as hundreds of people are taking advantage of this beautiful ski area. Snowmobiling seems to be coming back to its former popularity and this had been another boost to winter business. Events such as the winter carnivals in Minden and the Wilberforce area, the Minden Dog Sled Derby, Yamafest 88, cross country skiing, curling bonspiels and hockey tournaments all add up to making the winter months more pleasant. To put the icing on the cake many local citizens and people from the business community seem to be of the opinion that we must always be on the lookout for light industry that would employ people all year round and this would add a great boost to the already going tourist industry. We can't let up and we must always keep striving to get things going here so everyone can have a better standard of living. It won't be easy but we must keep trying.

It was a long hard road that the H.H.S.S. Redmen had to travel but they never lost hope and now they find themselves right in the thick of the play-offs against their old rivals, the Fenelon Falls Falcons. The local Redmen couldn't seem to get on track at the beginning of the season and they found it hard to win a game. When they got back on track and back on their winning ways they had a lot of catching up to do. They finally caught up and played the first game of the playoffs in Fenelon Falls on Tuesday night. They are back in Haliburton this Wednesday evening, February 14 and then back to Fenelon Falls on Thursday night for the third game. The Redmen will need your support if they are to go on in the playoffs and you can show this support by being at the arena to-night for this all important third game.

Did you know that CHACE Inc. began its services to the County with opening of Chace Place in Haliburton in April 1983? The space rented from Sir Sandford Fleming College was soon filled with babies, pre-schoolers and occasionally school aged children enjoying a range of toys, equipment, art activities, special events and more; a knowledgeable staff of two were there to plan activities, provide resources and guidance to parents when desired. Parents, and caregivers could meet while their children socialized. The coffee table became the focus for friendship, relaxation and learning. As time went on a toy lending library, book library and equipment rental service were being set up through the efforts of staff and volunteers. The founding Board of Directors, through its committees, were endeavouring to have people buy memberships to the organization, develop a newsletter "Family Focus" and find other means to raise funds for the organization to meet needs which might not be covered by the annual operating budget provided through COMSOC. A long range planning committee, ably chaired by Pat Martin, developed a two year operational plan which articulated more of vision. Another resource centre, in Minden, a daycare centre; programs for school aged children, a vital volunteer body and community outreach were among the objectives set out by the group.

This is the time of year when many people will be making plans for the annual March break which will be coming up in the very near future. Some of our local citizens will be leaving early and going down south for the break to soak up some of the sun even if it is just for a week. Others will be heading for Toronto and other larger centres, while others will remain at home to participate in whatever winter sports may be going on at that time.

Here, there and everywhere... The parents of Grade 10 students at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School are reminded that Grade 10 Parents Information Night will be held in the High School Cafeteria this coming Monday February 29 at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Leah Austin of Haliburton has returned home following a vacation in Florida... Stuart Baker, Director of Education for the Haliburton County Board of Education, was the guest speaker at last Thursday night's meeting of the Rotary Club of Haliburton... Even though we have had rain recently and some mild temperatures there's still good skating at the outdoor rink at the Rotary Beach... Bottles may be left outside your door or call Wanda at 457-1176, Darlene 457-2235, Bev. evenings 754-3480, if you would like to help the Haliburton OMHA Midget team Bottle and Can Drive coming up this Saturday February 27, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Refundables only.

The Haliburton Midgets are riding high following an 8-2 victory in the playoffs over the past weekend. They defeated Bancroft in Bancroft and will return home to the Haliburton Arena for the next game in the series which will be this Saturday night.

Honesty a virtue for the Chinese

The View From Here by Harvey Clarke

IT IS fascinating to see how Canada's official views on Chinese immigration have changed over the years. For that matter, our image of the Chinese is pretty confusing as well.

On the one hand, we have the story in January's Reader's Digest discussing the start of a flood of Hong Kong cash into Canada. The rich Chinese there are starting to move money into Canada, in anticipation of China's takeover of the colony from Britain in 1997.

On the other, we have a story in the dailies about the last hand laundry in Canada being dismantled in Winnipeg, to be transported to the National Museum in Ottawa. The curator of Asian studies considers it a real find, a miracle that it wasn't destroyed in 1978 when the owner retired.

There may now be several generations of Canadians who know nothing about 'The Chinaman' who came to the door in his strange pyjama-like costume who shuffled to the back door to collect the laundry in a pillowcase. If they have heard the expression 'no tickie, no shirtee,' they have no idea of its origins.

In the Digest story, they talk about our immigration department's 'business-emigrant' category, which allows anyone who will invest $250,000 in business in Canada to qualify for instant landed-immigrant status, and Canadian citizenship.

In the second story, it recounts the restrictions that Chinese in Canada were faced with, including The Chinese Exclusion Act, which barred the wives and children of immigrants from this country from 1923 to 1947.

Ho King, who is now 90, ran the laundry all by himself from 1927 until 1978, figured the business peaked around 1940, when it was clearing about $130 a week. It took him until 1959 to finance his wife's trip over so she could join him.

Li Ka-shing, featured in the other story, has sent his son over to keep an eye on his interests over here, which include 43% of Husky Oil in Calgary, and the Harbor Castle Hotel in Toronto.

Meanwhile, on CTV we see stories out of what used to be called Red or Communist but is now Mainland China, about the encouragement of entrepreneurs who are now allowed to keep part of their profits from the chicken farms or fast food restaurants they develop over there.

I suppose to the younger people today, these stories, and those of the Hong Kong investors are the image they have in their minds. That, and the fact that their generation of students seems to provide a significant number of Ontario Scholars of Chinese origin.

I do try to keep up with news about what's going on with the Chinese, not only here and in Hong Kong, but on the Mainland and in Taiwan as well. But it doesn't seem that long ago to me that Taiwan was called Formosa, and was the only 'official' China recognized by the non-Communist world. My memories, though, are of pictures of teeming hordes of Chinese coolies building immense dams, carrying all the dirt and rocks in wicker baskets on poles. Amazing ant-like feats, where the sheer number of people made the impossible possible.

I can recall my grandmother explaining how the Chinese had formalized bribery, as she wrapped parcels for missionaries there. She would sew the parcels into cotton sacking, then attach hard biscuits to the sturdy string she used to tie it up.

These hard biscuits were small and round, perhaps an inch across by a half-inch thick, with a hole slightly larger than the string in the middle. I didn't find them very tasty, but they apparently did the job.

As my grandmother explained it, the people who handled the parcels traditionally were allowed to steal from them. However, a system was worked out by which they would take one of the biscuits off the string as their 'commission' instead.

The missionaries were, of course, trying to explain the Christian concept of not stealing to those they were able to reach. But in the meantime, they had worked out how many people could be expected to handle the parcel, and were able to provide donors with an estimate of how many biscuits to attach to each parcel.

If you have read the book 'The Sand Pebbles,' or seen the movie based on it, you will remember the way the Chinese who worked on the American naval vessel each did one specific job, and no other. To encroach on the other's work was to 'break his rice bowl' — steal the food from his mouth, in effect.

Perhaps it is encouraging to know that the concept of honesty did become accepted by the Chinese who came to Canada.

According to the newspaper story, when workmen went into the old hand laundry to salvage the equipment for the museum, they found more than 50 brown-paper packages of shirts, tied with white twine, still sitting on the shelves, waiting for the men who brought them in for laundering at least a decade ago.

Ho King says he couldn't throw them out, because someone might come to get them. I guess if you had the ticket, he wanted to make sure he still had the shirt!

PIC OF THE PAST

by Creighton Feir

This week's Pic of the Past takes us back to the early 1950's when the village of Wilberforce boasted an outstanding hockey team. This high-scoring squad played several exhibition games with teams as far away as Toronto and no matter how strong the opposition proved to be, the Wilberforce 98's always rose to the occasion and came out winners most of the time. The players also kept in shape by playing in a local area league. Back row from the left: Jack Daniels, Gary Agnew, Mel Croft, Harry Hughey (coach). New columnist to write for The Echo

Sharon Lynch

People are the focus of this writer's work

Like a great many people who live in the Highlands, Sharon Lynch chose to move here because the landscape and the pace of life appealed to her. But she has discovered an added benefit — a wealth of subject material for her writing.

Lynch, who lives on the Buckslide Road in Stanhope Township, has had family ties to Haliburton County for 30 years — her parents own a cottage on Boskung Lake — but it is only recently that she decided to become a full time resident. And this week she makes her debut as a columnist for The Echo.

"Basically, what I'm writing about is people," says Lynch of her column, which she has named Down Our Road.

"What I'm trying to do is describe what it's like living here through the people — what they do, what they think about things, and how they interact. I'm trying to capture what appeals to me so much about living here, about why I decided to move here."

While her column is more fiction than essay or opinion piece, and its focus is on others rather than herself, the people and situations she writes about are real.

"I think so much (of what makes life in Haliburton special) is missed. There are a lot of little gems, whether it's a situation or person, that should be written down and remembered."

We're pleased to have Sharon as one of our columnists, and look forward to weekly editions of Down Our Road.

SHE COULD FEEL the sweat running down the backs of her legs. Her pants stuck to the skin, pulling with little tugs as though reminding her of the heat. Boy was it hot! The hat helped, but little creases of wetness kept squishing every time she bent her arm to plop the berries into her can. She'd been picking for over an hour and hadn't even two cups to show for it.

Sheila McGraw was a patient woman, but this was a bit much. The bushes had been picked over before she had even got to them, and it hadn't been bears. The raspberries had been getting more scarce each year but this was the worst. It got so every time she saw a car stopped at the side of the road, she got angry.

And her mouth had been all set for raspberry pie. Real raspberry pie, made with wild raspberries, not those things you could buy in the store, all plumped up and full of water. But a nice wild raspberry pie — ah, that was different. And it didn't have to be thick either; quality rather than quantity, that's what counted. She had planned to make three or four, one for supper and the rest into the freezer. But at this rate she'd be lucky to get enough for a large tart. She muttered in disgust.

It wasn't always like this. Sheila could remember when she and her brothers, sisters and mother would go out early in the morning and pick all day. It was awful hot then too, of course, but they had something to show for it by late afternoon. What her mother didn't put up, they'd sell by the side of the road, five cents a quart basket.

That's when money meant something. Now they talk of millions and billions like they were nothing. Like we all had a couple tucked under our mattresses.

There were lots of blueberries then too. They were hard on the back, being so low to the ground but at least you didn't have to worry about prickles. There was a spot over near Kinnmount where they grew like fleas on a hound. Her mother always said blueberries really grew after a fire had gone through an area. And after the Kinnmount fire, there were blueberries like you wouldn't believe.

Blackberries were something else again. She hated picking those. They didn't have prickles, they had real thorns that could rip you open when you least expected it. Those thorns were sneaky. You'd be looking really close, watching for them and then suddenly one would nob you from behind, just as you're dropping a handful of berries into the pail. But they made luscious jam.

All this thinking of food stirred up her appetite, so she went and sat on the knoll under a silver birch. There was half a cheese sandwich and a thermos of iced tea she'd left there earlier. As she sat munching, her thoughts returned to things that made tasty eating.

Fiddleheads. Tourists had kept telling her about fiddleheads and she had made like she knew what they were talking about. In the spring, she had gone out behind the house and picked a whole mess of new, curled-up ferns, the kind that looked like the end of a fiddle. She boiled the, slathered on some margarine and then had to spit out a mouthful. Bitter as gall. She couldn't understand what all the fuss

Patience a quality worth cultivating

Sunny Side Up by Martha Perkins

OF THE THOUSANDS of words one reads each day, there are only a few which create more than fleeting images. The other day, while reading realms of words about the care of Bonsai plants, (those Japanese trees and flowers which are meticulously pruned and shaped so that when they reach their full maturity they are the perfect replica of their brethren but only a fraction of the size) one of the growers happened to remark that for those who think Bonsais are too time consuming, "Patience is what you need when you don't like what you're doing."

Simple enough words, but the belief they conveyed was such a novel idea to me I mulled over the quote for many days, applying it to different experiences and reactions. You see, whenever I was doing something I found particularly tedious or boring, I would say to myself 'Patience is a virtue, patience is a virtue.' On my quest to become more virtuous I would accept the mind-numbing task in front of me as a way of becoming a better person. But then I started weaving.

Through the Echo, I have met many of the artisans in the county. I would go to their studios, marvel at their talents and wish I could be so fortunate. Some arts I accepted I would never be able to master, such as painting and drawing; some arts I admired but did not think I shared the same aptitude; but with weaving, I would want to reach out and touch the material, study the way the fibres mixed and mingled in such a soft yet orderly way, and admire the choice of colours and textures. However, I might not have done anything about this fascination with cloth had I not gone to the Rails' End Gallery to watch Wendy Bateman teach public school children how to weave a wall hanging. If those children almost half my size could do it, so could I.

I told the people in Minden I wanted the simplest loom there was. A large wooden square with small teeth lining two opposite ends proved to be a bit too simple after I finished my first placemat. I was ready for the next simplest loom, confident that something so small would be just as easily mastered. That confidence quickly turned into discouragement. Starting in the morning and working straight through until late that evening, I struggled with 140 threads each four metres long as I tried to make them wind onto a long wooden bar in some orderly fashion. I didn't think I was going to last long as a weaver.

But then you start weaving and those long threads of cotton become something solid and manageable. There's an excitement when your scissors cut into those threads as you finish your last row and then roll out your bolt of cloth. I made that?

With dozens of future projects in my mind, I decided to give setting up the loom another try. This time I knew what I was in for and was mentally prepared to learn a few lessons about patience. Yet there was something different. I didn't mind how long it took, I handled the threads with more ease, and I easily accepted that one can't rush through things. And I found myself really enjoying this excuse of peace and tranquillity; my mind was totally at ease.

What I had discovered is that I didn't need to instill a false sense of patience upon myself. It still

The best high school cross country skiers in Ontario were in Haliburton Monday and Tuesday for the OFFSA championship, a first for the local trail system and HHSS.

Redmen to face Fenelon in four point playoff series

Haliburton high school's Redmen hockey team has made it into the playoffs and will meet league leading Fenelon Falls in the first round.

The Redmen earned a berth in the playoffs with a tie against Campbellford in the final regular season game last Wednesday. Campbellford pulled their goal tender in the final seconds in a bid to win the game, since a tie gave Fenelon first place, but the tactic failed to set the Redmen back.

The local boys will open their three game, four point series in Fenelon on Tuesday, and will be back in Haliburton at the Dysart arena on Wednesday for a 7:15 p.m. start. Game three, if necessary will be played in Fenelon. Since the series is a four pointer, and no overtime will be allowed in the first three games, it is mathematically possible that a fourth game may be needed, and if so, it would be played in Haliburton on Friday night.

Coach Ron Stackhouse is confident that the Redmen are capable of defeating their arch rivals from Fenelon, despite that team's first place finish in regular season play.

"If we have our guys playing the way they're capable of playing, there's no reason we can't win." The key will be to avoid "lapses and dumb penalties", said Stackhouse.

One factor that may be in the Redmen's favour is the success of the local OMHA Midgets. They're now in playoff rounds, and since many of the Redmen are also on the team, they should be in peak condition and at the top of their game at this point in the season.

HHSS skis against the region's best

Haliburton high school's best downhill skiers faced some tough competition last Thursday when they competed for the Central Ontario title.

The event had been scheduled for a venue farther south, but was moved to Sir Sams at Eagle Lake, where snow conditions were excellent. Some 16 schools sent skiers to the event, which was a first at the local ski facility.

Racers competed in individual slalom and giant slalom competition, and for total team results.

Among the girls, Ursula Beachli was the top Haliburton competitor, finishing among the top 10 in both events, out of 50 competitors.

The best slalom finisher among the HHSS boys was Matt Creelman, who placed 13th out of 60 competitors. Chris Youngdale was the best Haliburton skier in the giant slalom event, placing 14th out of a field of 60.

The girls team finished third overall, and the combined boys and girls teams also came out in third place in the overall ranking.

Trinity College School finished in first place. Lindsay Collegiate won the girls team competition.

Members of the HHSS girls squad are Ursula Beachli, Tracy Popple, Krista Rydman and Kim Curry. The boys team includes Matt Creelman, Dalton Beachli, Alan Rydman and Dean Fyfe.

The team is coached by Ken Rydman, assisted by J.D. Bishop of Sir Sams.

It is the first year that HHSS has entered a downhill ski team in COSSA competition. Team members, as well as a number of other high school aged skiers, also have been representing Sir Sams in club competition this season.

Skiers meet the Sir Sam's challenge

Some regular skiers at Sir Sams are richer by more than $3,500 these days, after recording top finishes in the annual Sir Sams Ski Challenge, which wrapped up Sunday afternoon.

The biggest winner was Charlene Daville of Toronto who earned the top prize of $1000 and also skied to first place in the women older than 35 category. Top racer among the men was Russell Kent of Toronto, who earned a total of $600 for his performance in the final.

Sunday's races were preceded by six qualifying races on previous weekends. To be eligible for the final, racers had to compete in at least three of the qualifying giant slaloms.

The top finisher among women aged 16 to 35 was Ann Banfield of Oshawa. She pocketed $100. Second was Jane Pierson of Eagle Lake, who won $60.

Haliburton Midgets begin playoff series

The Haliburton O.M.H.A. Midgets start the play-off circuit, with their first opposition being Bancroft. The first home game (second game of the best of five) will be played on Thursday February 18 in the Dysart Community Arena at 8:00 p.m.

The Midgets have had a good year, losing only two games in the regular season play, although the competition in the play-offs will be very keen, the team should do well.

In preparation for the possibility of an extended stay in the play-offs the Midget management is organizing a bottle drive for Saturday February 27 from 9:30 a.m. to noon. They would appreciate support in the bottle drive and especially at the arena.

Atoms move on

The Haliburton O.M.H.A. Atoms have defeated Fenelon Falls in their playoff series, three games straight, with scores of 14-3, 4-0 and 5-3. The Atoms now move into quarter-finals against Frankford, with the first game in Frankford this coming Saturday at 3:30 p.m., and a return game at home in Haliburton on Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

Highland Grove game club sponsors fish derby, area residents take prizes

Submitted

On February 13, the South Algonquin Fish and Game Club of Highland Grove, held a fish derby in conjunction with the "Loop Carnival".

Their efforts were well rewarded with a large turnout, even though the weather was cold.

The derby was open to Jordan Lake and Diamond Lake with sign in at Jordan Lake Bait Shop. Club members and helpers were at the Bait Shop shortly before 7:00 a.m. to ensure entrants were signed-in and to start their day with a free coffee or hot chocolate. The ladies also had hot chili and donuts for sale.

Spotters assisted by drilling ice holes for any fishermen or women who needed them.

Trophies were for the largest fish in the Senior category (17 and over) and the Junior category (16 and under) and the total weight of fish in both Senior and Junior. The derby trophies were for the following species:- Lake Trout, Speckle Trout, Splake and Rainbow Trout.

No Rainbow Trout were caught in either Junior or Senior category.

Speckle Trout produced no Senior winner, but Michael Stringer of Bancroft, won the trophy for Junior category largest fish and also for total weight.

The trophy for largest splake for Seniors went to Brad Musclow of Bancroft and largest splake for Juniors went to Brian Vardy of Bancroft. Brian Vardy also won for total weight in the Splake category.

In the Lake Trout category, Jeremy Musclow of Bancroft won for the largest fish for Juniors, with Steve Bowers of Bancroft winning for the Seniors and also the total weight.

The Youngest Fisherman trophy went to three year old Shauna Ferrier of Oshawa.

The trophies were donated by the following: R. E. Storey Aluminum Products, Jordan Lake Bait Shop, Carman Young Logging Limited, Northland Fishing Lures, Rodney Hogan Excavating, Earl Bowers Contracting and Hans Schenkel, Deer Lake. The Youngest Fisherman trophy was donated by the Bait Box.

When the day was over and the fish had been weighed in and trophies presented, it was time to disburse draw prizes. All 103 entrants to the derby had a chance to win one of 77 donated draw prizes.

The first draw prize donated by Southern Ontario Guide Services, owned/operated by Ron Farrow of Bowmanville for a four hour salmon fishing charter on Lake Ontario for two people was won by Maurice Bradley of Highland Grove.

The numerous other draw prizes were donated by the following sponsors: Roseborough Sporting Goods, Trent Fishing Tackle, Jordan Lake Bait Shop, Birch Cliff Lodge, Baptiste Lake Marina, Bancroft Sport and Marine, Bancroft Plumbing Heating and Electrical, Orland Lewis, Graf's General Store, W. Ronald Mumford, Schwandt Homecare and Building Supplies Limited, Forest View Lodge, Fred and Kay Ireland, Grant's General Store, McKelvie Millen, Wilsons Service Centre, Sutherland Supply, Peterborough Cashway Lumber and Building Centre (Bancroft), Bancroft Rentals, Bancroft Automotive Supply, Bancroft Bargain Barn Limited, Dixie Lee, Elephant Lake Lodge, Fowlers Service Centre, Mary Brinklow, Highland Auto Refinishing and the South Algonquin Fish and Game Club. If any sponsors have been omitted, please accept our sincere apology.

The Club also held a raffle for a glass fish which was won by Wilson (Bud) Law.

The South Algonquin Fish and Game Club wish to say a big "Thank You" to the trophy sponsors, the draw prize sponsors and the ladies and gentlemen who helped host this day and made it possible.

The Club will be using the fish derby proceeds for fish restocking this year. Last year's fish derby proceeds were also used for fish restocking.

Club members say they look forward to an even bigger and better fish derby in 1989 and hope everyone will share in the effort.

Peewees defeat Uxbridge club to win local weekend tourney

Haliburton's OMHA Peewee hockey team won the consolation side of a one day tournament at the Dysart arena on Saturday.

The local boys rolled over Uxbridge 7-1 to take the consolation title in the eight team tourney.

Haliburton opened with a 2-1 loss to Huntsville. In their first round action, Port Perry blanked Minden 4-0, and Dorchester defeated Uxbridge 7-0.

Second round action on the consolation side saw Haliburton dominate Little Britain 7-1, and Uxbridge get by Minden 3-2.

On the championship side, Port Hope hammered Huntsville 9-3 and Port Perry edged out Dorchester 3-2.

The overall championship went to Port Hope, who defeated Port Perry 3-1 in the day's final game.

and third went to Shelley Daville, who won $40. Among the men 16 to 35, Russell Kent was the winner of $100, as well as an additional $500 for his overall ranking. Todd Vanpary of Toronto was second, winning $60, and Alex Jowett of Toronto took third place and $40.

Gord Pierson was the top finisher among men older than 35, earning $100. Second and $60 went to Victor Ettell of Toronto. Peter Brady, also of Toronto, was third.

Charlene Daville was the top skier among the women older than 35, and also the best overall, which earned her the $1000 top prize. Hanka Rehacek of Toronto was second, and Rejane Seider of Toronto was third.

The fastest racer among girls younger than 16 was Tiffany Cowan of Haliburton, and she won $100. Wendy Rehacek of Toronto was second, and Andrea Black of Haliburton was third.

Best among the boys younger than 16 was Mark Thompson of Haliburton. Colin Sisson of Haliburton was second, and Micheal Bray of Ottawa was third.

Two teams rally in men's action

Comeback hockey was the order of the night on Sunday as the Deblor Drillers and Bishop and Wilson trailed going into the third periods of their respective games, and then outscored their opponents to win by a single goal.

Elstone Motors took the lead in the first period their game against the surveyors, and held onto it until the final minutes of the third period, when three quick goals by Bishop and Wilson gave them a 9-8 win.

Scoring for Bishop and Wilson were Glen Pick with a hat trick, Rick Wood and Barry Boice with two each, Tony Scheffee and Mike Iles.

Sharpshooters for Elstone Motors were Mike Rae with three, Drew Carey with two, Hardy Kraft, Steve Cooper and Rod Sisson.

In the night's other game, The Deblor Driller battled back from a 9-6 deficit in the third period to score four unanswered goals and win 10-9.

Tim Davies and Bernie Upton each had three goals for the Drillers, while Derrell Stamp and Scott Rae notched two apiece.

Rod Consack had a hat trick for Haliburton Lumber. Other goal scorers for the lumbermen were Chris Hodgson with two, Ed Davis, Tom Ballentine, Duff Mitchell and Andy Hodgson.

County counsellors are sought

by MARTHA PERKINS
Staff reporter

IN HALIBURTON COUNTY, there are services designed to counsel people through various stressful times of their lives, but like the people themselves, they are spread out over vast distances. The problem with linking the right people with the right counsellors is often the problem of knowing just who, and where these counsellors are.

In order to compile a thorough and complete directory of all the counselling services in the county, the Counselling Task Force of the Haliburton Social Action Committee has sent out questionnaires to all the people it can think of who are involved with outreach programs, including doctors, volunteer agencies and social service organizations. Each service has been asked to describe its operation fully, from the hours it is open to its billing structure, its mandate, and its areas of expertise. Once the information is compiled, these same professionals will have a quick reference of services when someone comes to them seeking assistance.

"We're trying to develop our own area and find the resources which are available," says Kirsten Monk, a member of the task force. Earlier, many of the available services were located in Peterborough and people just had to accept the fact that if they wanted help, they'd have to make the drive. Then Peterborough pulled out of the Children's Advisory Committee and the people in Haliburton decided to organize a local action committee which would deal with social service needs and issues for all people in the county. Since then three task forces have been established by the volunteer members—housing, counselling, and drugs and alcohol.

When the counselling task force first meet to discuss how it was going to fulfill the purposes of HSAC—identify social service needs of Haliburton County and then take the necessary steps to fund and implement them—its members decided that in order to help those who needed counselling, they first had to find out who was counselling. The questionnaire seemed a logical solution, yet even when they are completed and returned, "we're just over our first hump."

The task force, and its questionnaire, is focusing on four areas of counselling, which includes all levels of services such as counselling, advice and guidance, therapeutic counselling, support groups, group therapy and self-help groups. These four areas are: mental health counselling; bereavement; youth/adolescent; and career/employment counselling.

As one of the owners of Monk's Funeral Home, Kirsten Monk is more than familiar with the need for some sort of counselling services for widows and widowers. At the time of the funeral, the events are too confusing and mind-numbing, but after the shock wears off, the spouse left behind can find themselves in a lonely and terrifying situation.

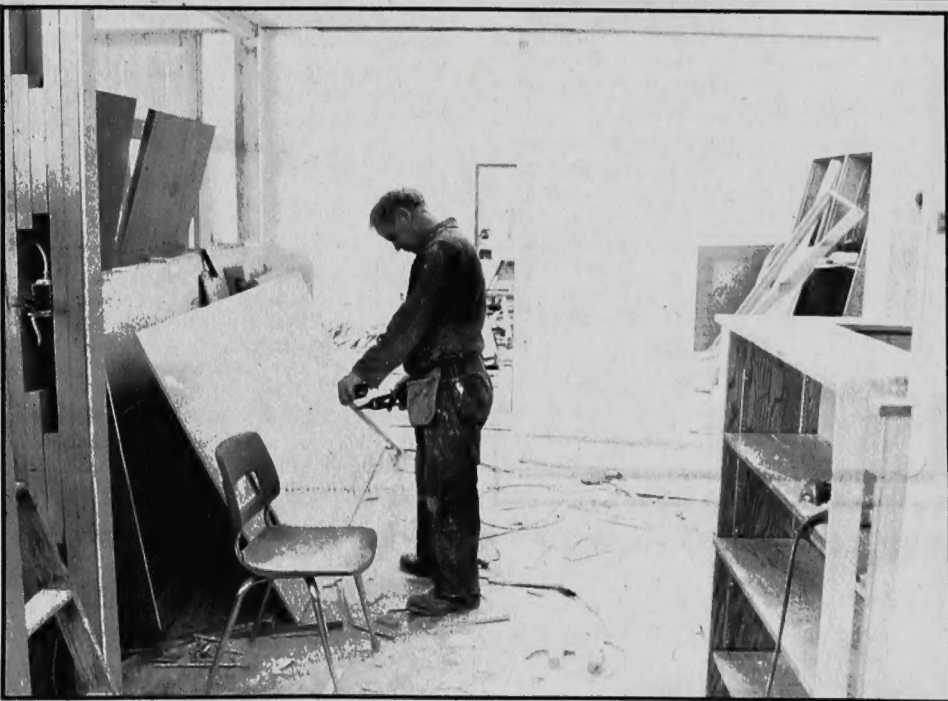

At the funeral home, Monk can sometimes see signs of "negative grieving" but it is very difficult for her to do anything in that short time. She wouldn't even know who to refer people to. One of her goals for the task force, therefore, is to set up a support group for widows and widowers similar to the ones for cancer and Alzheimer patients. By looking at the questionnaire she can determine whether others feel there is a need and who can help her get the support group started.

'We're trying to develop our own area and find the resources which are available,' says Kirsten Monk, a member of the Haliburton Social Action Committee's task force on counselling

"We want to have something we can tell them (people in need of any type of counselling, not just bereavement) so they're not left alone to deal with their problem," Monk says. "Eventually we are going to be able to help people get the help they need and reach out to others."

The task force would appreciate it if the questionnaires could be completed by this week so it can begin compiling the information. It will then be one step nearer the goal of making sure the people of Haliburton County never have to go without just because they live in a semi-remote area.

Library is closed for renovations

The Dysart library is closed for the next two weeks while it extensive renovations are underway. When it reopens on March 5, library users will find a much more pleasant setting in which to browse, do research and read periodicals.

County Librarian Joel Levis said the renovations were made possible by the recent relocation of the county library office to the former Red Cross Hospital building — also owned by the municipality of Dysart et al — across from the arena.

There is a growing demand for library services across Haliburton County, according to Levis, and the expansion of the Dysart branch into the space attracted an estimated 1100 people, and those who attended clearly enjoyed themselves. The upstairs bar, staffed by local Rotary Club members, produced significant revenues for the club's community projects, although totals are not yet available.

Saturday's activities included safaris to Haliburton Wildlife Reserve, some of the rodeo events that had been planned, and a full afternoon of racing on the snocross track on Head Lake. A pancake breakfast put on by the Rotary Club was a huge success, drawing an estimated 400 people.

Edwards said he was particularly impressed and gratified by the support the Yamfest project got from local service clubs and the business community, who gave "120 percent" to the effort. Among the people and groups who made the event possible were the Rotary Club, the Legion branch 129, local business owners, the municipality, the Legion cadets, the Chamber of Commerce, the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association, Pat Waddell of Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Preserve, and the Ministry of Tourism, who provided a destinations east grant to the project. Edwards also praised his own staff at Shamrock Service Centre, who had to cope with a heavy workload throughout the weekend, at the registration point.

Saturday night's planned planned bonfire and public skating party at Rotary Beach had to be cancelled because weather conditions had made the ice unusable by late in the day, Edwards said.

Pat Kennedy and his crew did an outstanding job of preparing the snocross track and running the races, Edwards noted. Racers, some of whom were initially unhappy that the course included jumps, are reported to have been pleased with the event in the end.

Throughout the weekend, large crowds were on hand to take in the racing, which attracted some of the top racers in the sport.

Saturday Casino Night was extremely successful, and it is anticipated that the proceeds to be donated to the Haliburton Hospital Expansion fund will be significant.

While it was Edwards' and the community's first try at hosting a snowmobile festival, he said he would be willing to do it all again next year, if the community supports it, and if other local groups are willing to get involved.

"If the community and the business people want it, then we'll do it", said Edwards.

He said planning for next year's event could begin as early as April.

Minister to talk to farmers about free trade

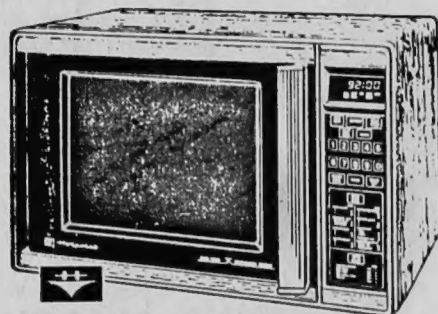

Farmers in Victoria-Haliburton who are concerned over the impact of a free trade deal, are invited to a seminar this Wednesday night in Lindsay featuring the Minister of Agriculture.

The Honourable Jack Riddell, Minister of Agriculture and Food, will be discussing the issue at 8:00 p.m. in the Ontario Government Building, 322 Kent Street West. The Lindsay seminar is one of several Riddell is conducting in the next few weeks.

According to ministry staff estimates, Ontario farmers could lose $95 million in a free trade deal.

Making books into art

Cardiff students put their imaginations to work

by MARTHA PERKINS

Staff Reporter

A TRIP TO the library may yield an armful of books about art, but a trip to the Rails' End Gallery by a busload of Cardiff school children provided them with a fascinating glimpse at books which were art—and an "artbook" of their own.

Discovery Tours is an on-going students' educational program at the art gallery which combines tours of the exhibits with a hands-on workshop with the artist. Not only does it get children to visit the "boring" art gallery, but by getting them involved in the exhibit, it allows them to better understand the innovation and hard work that goes into producing a piece of art.

On display from now until March 12 is Words and Images: The Book as Art. It includes original illustrations of popular children's books as well as the work of a traditional book binder and two alternative book makers—Lise Melhorn-Boe and Lynne Avadenka.

It was Melhorn-Boe who was at the gallery last week to welcome the children from the area schools, show them some of her work and then help them discover there are other ways to make books besides cutting squares, stapling them along the left-hand side and then methodically reading from left to right, left to right. She had quick and eager studies.

"I really enjoy working with children, they're very open to the idea," says Melhorn-Boe, who has taken part in the Creative Artists in the Schools programs in Toronto. While adults may look askance at books printed on long outlines of legs, or cut-out dolls, the children readily accepted the encouragement to let their imagination run wild as they came up with ideas of how to present their stories in the most interesting—and fun—way.

Melhorn-Boe's own pieces are definitely unconventional, yet even though there is a political slant to the stories she has to tell, she has as much fun with them as the children did making their books about cats, dinosaurs and walks through the woods.

Tongue-in-cheek

"It's all part of one series of women's perceptions of their roles in society and their bodies," she said of her exhibit before the Cardiff children arrived. But instead of making overt feminist statements, she let other women write their impressions while she used her artistic instincts to illustrate them in a tongue-in-cheek fashion.

"The stories come from women I know and who answered a questionnaire I wrote and sent to them," she says in the printed introduction to the show. "Perhaps I know a lot of funny people, or maybe, when I am editing the text, I have a tendency to select the funniest stories and comments.

"As the pieces in this series evolved, I came to realize humour is an excellent tool by which to deal with issues of a political nature. A light-hearted approach is more inviting to the viewer than a heavily didactic one."

Take High Heels for example. What first greets the viewer is a shoe box made by grinding up squares of cotton with water and pressing the resulting product into paper. One opens the box to find a pair of paper high-heeled shoes. The book part of the exhibit is written on the several insoles of the shoes and here you will read of some women who feel sleek and sophisticated in high heels, as long as they're not too high, and others who believe they are a plot by men to prevent women from being able to run quickly.

Perhaps you have a mother who always kept a pink powder puff in her boudoir and you grew up, like Melhorn-Boe did, thinking of pink in a soft and fuzzy way. Other women's impressions are written, with pink ink of course, in a pink powder puff box Melhorn-Boe made with pink paper. To shave their legs or not to shave their legs is another issue women address in a piece written on long silhouettes of a woman's legs.

When the children toured the exhibit last Thursday, they might not have picked up on the messages Melhorn-Boe was trying to convey, but they did see that people were making books in ways they hadn't dreamed of. If real artists could do it, why couldn't they?

It was fun, kids say

"The last time I went to an art gallery it was boring because you just sat around and listened to yapping; you didn't learn much," says eight-year-old Donna Podres. Because of her boring experience at a gallery before, she wasn't at all certain about what this trip would hold. "I didn't really want to come but it turned out to be fun."

"I didn't think it was going to be fun until I got here and saw all the books," LeeAnn Rocco added. The children had been told they were going to do something with the stories they had written in class, but no one knew exactly what that was going to mean.

"You have to think about what you're doing,"

Art is 'putting a lot of work into something and making it fit your own tastes,' says Cardiff student Danielle Greaves who gets some help making her story fit into her 'toy box book' from Lise Melhorn-Boe says classmate Travis Smith, who adds he'd like to work in an art gallery one day. "It's hard and fun. When you're making the books you can make it fun."

Art is "Putting a lot of work into something and making it to fit your own tastes," says Danielle Greaves, 11, and according to her view she thinks the books on display are a form of art.

For teacher Faye Maddock, bringing the children to the Haliburton gallery was a novel experience in two ways. First of all, whenever they go on a local field trip they usually head over to Bancroft which is a lot closer, and this might be some of the children's first visit. Secondly, as the student's only art teacher, she appreciates the exposure to other talents and personalities.

"They get ideas from me all the time but I'm only one person," she says as she tries to stay on the sidelines during the discovery tour. "They need more input. They need and I need it. Who would think of putting a book in a pair of shoes? I wouldn't."

Heritage walkers hear of store's eccentric past

by LEN PIZZEY

Editor

Haliburton's past is gone, but certainly not forgotten. It lives in the memories of many local people, in words, photographs artifacts and structures. Haliburton's Heritage Committee is determined to keep the past a vital part of the present, and last Saturday they did just that, showing films of pioneer life, leading a heritage walk to Banks General Store, and staging displays of pioneer skills and crafts at the Rails End Gallery.

While the committee's focus has been on identifying structures from the past which still exist in the present, they have also strived to recreate the human dimension, recalling the pioneers who helped to make Haliburton the thriving community it has become. That thrust was enhanced in last Saturday's visit to Banks store when Douglas Hodgson, former director of education, a keen local historian and himself a descendant of Haliburton pioneers, shared his memories of Fred Freeman, the colourful character who once owned Banks Store.

Freeman, who was born in England in 1847 and died in Haliburton 1937, came to the community to manage the Irwin Store (now Banks), which was built to supply the camps of millionaire white pine lumber baron Mossom Boyd.

A gruff, eccentric and somewhat intimidating man, Freeman nevertheless attracted a faithful clientele, including the young Doug Hodgson who would stop in to buy penny candy on his way to or from the nearby school.

The storekeeper is remembered for a number of his unusual habits, one of which was to save pennies in nail kegs. It was said that when he died he left a small fortune in pennies behind, and Don Banks, the store's current owner, says at least one of those barrels is reputed to be in the basement to this day, though he has yet to find it.

Freeman is also remembered for buying his casket many years in advance. He kept it in the attic of his store, along with a copper sheathed rough box. Leaving nothing to chance, he also had his tombstone erected at Evergreen cemetery, leaving only the date of his death to be filled in.

Freeman ran to store continuously for 55 years, pausing only on Sundays to attend church and work in his garden. He never married, and always cooked his own meals.

He died at age 90 on December 6, 1937, one of Haliburton's best known and most picturesque citizens.

Following Doug Hodgson's reminiscences, the 20 or so people who participated in last Saturday's walk, returned to the Rail's End Gallery for a demonstration of cross cut sawing by Buck Cowan and Grant Clement, and displays of spinning and weaving by Claire McLeod, Maggie McClure and Wendy Bateman.

Doug Hodgson, above, recalls his childhood encounter with Fred Freeman, for 50 years the mildly eccentric owner of Irwin's (now Banks) Store in Haliburton.

Buck Cowan and Grant Clement show how it used to be done.

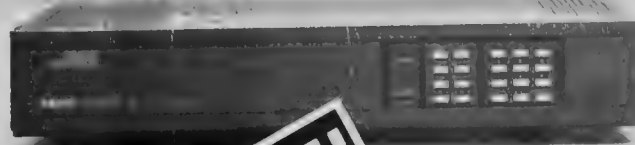

Claire McLeod demonstrated the art of spinning wool.

Log cabin perfect site for a heritage Christmas

by LEN PIZZEY
Editor

Spring may be in the air, but that didn't stop three members of the enrichment class at Archie Stouffer elementary school from celebrating Christmas a little early, and in pioneer style. The three, Catya Hynard, Kerry Brezina and Julie Bird, welcomed a number of visitors to a log cabin on the property of Tom and Diane Dawson near Gelert last Friday, and treated them to a display of pioneer artifacts and crafts, an explanation of nineteenth century fashions, and some home baked goodies.

The three girls, along with their friend Shannon Tripp, put an extra touch of authenticity on their special Christmas by wearing pioneer costumes, and leading visitors on a brief tour of their display before offering them refreshments.

Among those who attended the pioneer Christmas were director of education Stuart Baker, Archie Stouffer principal McKay Brydon, and board of education trustee Wendy Ladurantaye.

As part of their enrichment program, the girls were required to complete projects in English and history. The boys in their class were interested in a project focussing on war, but the girls had other ideas. They leaned toward women's liberation, and so began what turned out to be a pioneer Christmas.

They set out learn what life was like for the women of Haliburton County more than a century ago. Their first collective idea was to cook a pioneer meal in the classroom, and to sew a pioneer dress. When that proved impractical, they decided on a Christmas display that would include artifacts, crafts and food to recreate the look and spirit of a pioneer Christmas.

Julie Bird handled the decorations, Kerry Brezina looked after most of the cooking, and Catya Hynard researched and presented and overhead projector presentation on clothing styles of the nineteenth century.

They began working on the project in November, and say they got a lot of help along the way from local people who told them what they knew about pioneer times, and loaned them some of the artifacts that were included in last Friday's display.

The girls received many compliments from visitors, and it was clear that they not only learned quite a lot about the life and skills of pioneer women, but enjoyed themselves along the way.

Berries found 'down the road'

The next week she'd seen her cousin Harv and asked him if he'd ever had fiddleheads. Harv really knew about eating wild plants and the like, so if anyone should know, he should. Yes, he had said, they were good. She told him she had tried some and thought they were worse than poison.

"What kind did you pick?" he had asked her. She told him, the kind all curled up into a circle. "No wonder", he said, "those are the wrong kind. Look I'll show you over here." He pointed out some other ferns springing up from the soggy earth, but instead of looking like anything to do with a fiddle, these looked like a hand balled up, with the fingers scrunched into a fist and just starting to open.

Never one to give up easily, she had tried again. And they were good. Tender, not too strong in taste. She didn't tell anyone though, she was afraid they'd all get picked off.

She finished the rest of her sandwich and emptied the thermos. It had hit the spot alright, but a sucker sandwich would have been even better. She stood up and stretched her back, arching it up and back a few times to loosen things. Maybe down the road, just back of that hydro pole her luck would be better. Even if she only got enough for one pie. Summer wasn't summer without a raspberry pie to tide you over until next year.

The dust hung in clouds above the road and the bushes on either side were coated and gritty looking. The heat shimmered all around and cicadas whined back and forth from the trees.

She started thinking about water. Water and sucker sandwiches. Every spring, when the suckers were running, a whole gang would go sucker fishing and Sheila's mother would do them up in jars. Sheila wasn't sure how she did it, but she could still see the beige-grey chunks filling the sealers. Mashed up with onion, mayonnaise and salt and pepper, you'd think you were eating pink salmon sandwiches.

There was one spot the men really favoured for sucker fishing in those days. She had been pretty young the first time she went to watch, but she could still remember it well.

It had been one of the rituals of spring. Her father, uncles and cousins had all looked about ten feet tall to her at the time so she had to have been small.

It was where the rapids ran down into a large pool before bouncing over the rocks and continuing on down to the lake. The men all had waders on and stood in different spots in the water. Their faces and hands were already brown from working outside, though the weather hadn't warmed up too much yet. They stood like thick-legged herons, arms poised with pitchforks, waiting for the right second. The water was swirling around their thighs, tugging, trying to trip them up. Their arms would be wet by the time they were finished but it didn't matter. The suckers were running and they were going to fill a few sacks.

Down went a pitchfork—you had to be fast—it would come again in a flash, with a sucker stuck on the end. A flick of the wrist sent the fish flying onto the rocky shore where they'd flop around furiously for a minute or two. You couldn't hear them with the roar of the water, but you could see their tails beating against the rocks.

The voices of the men were muffled by the water as well. You'd hear a shout, either of caution or anticipation but couldn't quite make out what was said. There was movement everywhere, in the water and on the shore above it all the rapids, swollen with run-off, barreling down towards the men. Later, there'd be a neat row of jarred suckers ready to be put away for the winter.

The suckers didn't run there anymore. No one knew why, they just stopped. Oh there were still lots of suckers, but they moved around. Some say the new dam did it. Sheila only knew it was one more things that had changed over the years. Like the raspberries. Everything seems better when you're young.

might take me four or five hours, but those hours were filled with tiny satisfactions that made it all so worthwhile.

This discovery hasn't ended. I was to return to Wendy Bateman to buy strips of wool to make some rugs and as I admired at the projects on her loom I thought she surely must be a dedicated weaver because she had to weave each row of wool through the threads by hand. When I got home I found out that was the only way you can do it. And I didn't mind it either. Then I bought some wool which I first had to roll into balls. How boring, I thought as I started. But then some of the lanolin in the wool began to rub onto my fingers, making them feel so soft, and I approached the next skeins with anticipation.

Along each step of the way I have discovered that I really like what I'm doing and that no matter how long it takes, that pleasure does not ebb away. Now I can store up my patience for a task I really don't enjoy.

Communities gather for Olympic award festivities

by MARTHA PERKINS

Staff reporter

AS THE OLYMPICS provides Canadian athletes with a showcase for their abilities, the Celebration '88 awards ceremonies might be smaller in scope but in four communities in the county this weekend, the people who gathered to honour the sports and community-minded residents of their township were just as proud of their hometown "winners" as they are of those in the international spotlight. The local recipients may not be as famous but in each community, their efforts and achievements have not gone unnoticed.

Presenting each award was the Member of Parliament for Victoria/Haliburton, Bill Scott, who had just returned from a trip to the Olympic games in Calgary. What impressed him the most was the 10,000 volunteers who poured into the stadium during the opening ceremonies, demonstrating in a dramatic way society's dependence on those people who devote their time and energy to various projects without any reward but the satisfaction of knowing they've done something to make their community a better place to live.

"A community is not a healthy community without the volunteers," Scott said at the various functions. "Sometimes (their work) goes unnoticed for too long."

Scott welcomed the opportunity for communities to recognize the volunteers whose work is often appreciated but seldom acknowledged. Just as the Olympics are a showcase for Canada's pride, the awards are "saying in a small way, look it, this is great. You have pride in your community. This is the true spirit of volunteerism."

The following is a brief description of the celebration festivities and the people who were honoured for their commitment to their fellow residents.

Monmouth workers praised

IT WAS one of the recipients of the Celebration '88 awards who remarked how fitting it was that the ceremonies to give the Wilberforce School "Olympians" their medals was held in conjunction with the adult's awards presentations.

Borrowing a line from In Flander's Fields, Murray Agnew told his young audience of school children, and perhaps future volunteers, "To you from failing hands we throw the torch."

When the Olympics first started, Mr. Agnew admitted he wasn't very enthused. Then the students carried their torch along Wilberforce's main thoroughfare and "it started to bring out the spirit even more." On Friday, as he watched the children's faces beaming with pride as they were handed their ribbons, it became even more clear to him that a whole new generation of volunteers and community-minded people had taken part in activities designed to teach them how to be the best that they can be.

"It's our privilege to share with you our feelings of community spirit. We know you have to come to grips with it and carry on."

These are the award winners for Monmouth Township announced by Joyce Barras, a member of the nominating committee:

Best Female Athlete

Marcie Jordens is a familiar face at the arena where she spends many hours as a member of the Monmouth Figure Skating Club. In the summer months she's the assistant swimming instructor and at home she spends much of her time training and riding horses.

Best Male Athlete

Taking after the footsteps of his family, Steven Coumbs has become a "real outdoors Person," with his hunting, fishing and trapping activities. He plays in minor hockey and is also involved with sports at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School where he is a student.

Best Volunteer

"If there was ever a man who deserves recognition, here he is," said Mrs. Barras as she called Keith Tallman to receive his award. The reeve of 10 years, Mr. Tallman also puts a lot of time and effort in the recreation committee and was instrumental in getting the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre built.

"Sometimes in this political game there are unpleasant times but he's carried on," said Scott. "You've got to take a lot of abuse and sometimes a lot of praise. Keith has been a dedicated person to his community."

Best Coach

It was "Mr. Coach", Bob Anderson who was recognized for his years of dedication to sports in Monmouth. His record involves eight years with minor hockey, four years as president of the local association, coaching minor league baseball, working at Bill's Hill's and being active with many fund raising activities.

"He's another guy who has certainly been a credit to his community," said Scott. "Our population is a more scattered and there are not as many people who will carry on and carry on."

Best Official

"To you, for so many things you've been involved in, congratulations," Scott said to Reg Schofield as he handed him his award. "I know Reg and he's done a lot for his community."

Through his involvement over the years, Mr. Schofield is able to officiate at any event which is held—"he's been involved in them all." He's also very active in curling and has skipped some successful rinks.

Best Sponsor

Since 1921, Agnew's Store has been serving the people of Wilberforce and area. Not just a place to pick up the mail or buy a few groceries, the store has also become a destination of any group requesting support, financial or otherwise.

"They have been more than giving towards every organization and every event," said Mrs. Barras, with Scott adding that Murray Agnew, who accepted the award on behalf of the store, has "driven countless hours and miles to attend this function and that function. He's always there. He's a tireless workhorse."

Certificate of Merit

In appreciation for her "unselfish contribution" to her community, former nurse Sylvia Cameron was honoured for her long-standing volunteer efforts. "She's greatly contributed to the quality of life and she's held in very high regard," said Mrs. Barras.

Glamorgan says thanks

FOR ITS festivities, Glamorgan Township brought a little of the "country" rhythm to the community centre when it decided to give everyone a chance to stamp their feet as well as clap their hands.

The festivities on Saturday afternoon began with The Howdies, a country and western band from Lindsay which featured local drummer Shawn Stoughton. After they played a few tunes, and Stoughton livened things up with his energetic drum solo, Susan Grimes sang a few songs as her mother, Margaret Haywood, accompanied her on guitar.

Between the entertainment and the refreshments which followed the ceremonies, reeve Bob McCausland was able to give out the awards which are as follows:

Best Volunteer

Vince Billings is known for his many involvements in Glamorgan which including, coaching and playing on several teams, and organizing many of the events taking place in the township throughout the year. "He's just a good community worker," McCausland said.

Best Sponsor

The father and son team of Ron and Gordon Barr accepted the award for their store's support of both athletic and recreational events in the community. "You couldn't count the money and time they've donated," said McCausland, with Scott adding "Everyone will be aware of the contribution they've made."

Best Male Athlete

Whether it was hardball and softball in the summer, hockey in the winter, or horseshoes whenever his luck was just right, the late Robert Hunter was a well-known and respected sports figure in the township. Not wanting his dedication and involvement to go unnoticed, McCausland gave the posthumous award to Mr. Hunter's grandson, David Graham, who accepted it on the family's behalf.

Best Female Athlete

There's no end to the number of ways Joan McCausland gets involved with the various athletic activities in the township. She cross country skis, swims and plays baseball. As her husband said as he presented the award, "I didn't realize you were that talented."

Best Coach

Often times, the work of a coach goes without recognition but Glamorgan wanted to let baseball coach Bill Dobson know that his untiring work with various teams is appreciated.

Best Official

"It's got to be the most thankless job there is," said McCausland as he presented Ron Mintz with his award for all the hours he has spent as a referee and volunteer at sporting events.

Certificates of Merit

The following people and businesses were given scrolls to show thanks for the work they have done in Glamorgan: Jack Billings, Jason Billings, Dale Dovell, Dorothy Robertson, Ilene Hunter, Norma Parnell, Doreen Kendall, Stoughton Electric, Gwen Taylor, Ed Taylor, Dorothy Graham, Vanieta Pickens, Bea Hillis, Clyde Taylor, W.O. Hunter, M.W. Hunter, Schwandt Lumber, McDuff Texaco, and Kei's Restaurant.

Honoured for their long and devoted service to the residents of Stanhope, Gord Martin and Ken and Joan Alger were presented with awards on Saturday night at the Firefighter's Hall

Bevy of volunteers are honoured in Stanhope

WHEN THE residents of Stanhope gathered at the Firefighter's Hall on Saturday night, many of the people they came to honour were responsible for raising the funds—and the rafters—of the township's community centre.

Master of Ceremonies was councillor Ann Barker, who told her audience "this township is very envied by other townships." Many of the local residents are active in putting on the events which are held this year and the high participation rate means things can get down which otherwise would have to be passed over because of lack of funds. "It's thousands and thousands of dollars which are saved because you put your time into it without being thanked."

However, the festivities were a time to give thanks, and the following people were recognized for their contributions of time and devotion to their community:

Best Coach

Not only does Gord Martin direct the youth bowling program at Carnarvon Lanes, but he also takes lessons to improve his skills as a bowler and instructor. He helped build the hall and volunteers for his church, along with his brothers whom Barker also wanted to credit for their work.

Best Female Athlete

Few baseball players have not had to test their skills against Joan Alger's, a player on both the Carnarvon team and the Minden Senior Women team.

She helps with bingo, she's the secretary for Carnarvon Five-Pin Bowling as well as an active bowler, is active with both her church and the Haliburton County Fair Board and, as Bill Scott noted, keeps quite busy at home breeding goats. When he met her at an event and she told him some of the work involved, Scott said he could tell she is a woman whose "heart is set down deep and has a love for what she is doing."

Best Male Athlete

After Scott heard the list of accomplishments Ken Alger has racked up over the years, including time as a coach, the MP said "When you can do that and still have friends you must be doing something right."

Whatever Alger has done right, he's also been doing it for a great number of years. In 1954 he began acting as a referee for minor hockey and in 1970 began his role as umpire. From 1956 to 1986 he coached minor hockey and girls' baseball. He helps with bingo and has been a director of the Minden Agricultural Society as well as its president.

Certificates of Merit

Faced with such a plethora of volunteers, the organizing committee decided to give certificates of merits to all the people who have given so much of their time to the township while asking for so little in return. The recipients are as follows: Evelyn Coleman, Alex Stevenson, Norman Wallace, Barbara Nangle, Bill Cowen, Vern Boles, and Dave McKinlay.

AS MASTER of Ceremonies for Cardiff's Celebration '88 awards festivities, the Rev. Maurice Bradley saw this as a time "to come together to share our excitement and the spirit of the Olympics."

On Sunday afternoon, the Highland Grove Community Centre was filled with people who shared this desire to recognize the people who have made their community a better place to live, and found no better time to do it than when Canada was honouring the athletes who have strived to be the best they can be. The recipients of the awards are as follows:

Best Male Athlete

Not only was the late Blake Barnes a very good hockey player in his own right, but through his efforts to promote the sport in general, hockey in the township is much better for it. "He has given his time and energies to make hockey what it is today," Rev. Bradley told Adele Barnes as she accepted the award in memory of her husband.

Best Female Athlete

Cardiff has every right to be proud of Marsha Sweet, a highschool student who has been chosen as goalie for the provincial field hockey team. "Who knows where you go on from here," said Rev. Bradley with Bill Scott adding "I hope this leads to other experiences right up to the Olympics."

Best Sponsor

It's not just the money he has contributed to local events that made his fellow residents chose Mac Gadway, owner of the HomeCare store in Harcourt, as the sponsor they'll always remember. He'll do anything for the local sports activities including cut the grass and pay for advertising. "He's a person we respect and honour," said Rev. Bradley who presented the award to Gerald Mumford, accepting on behalf of Mr. Gadway.

Best Official

There are no boundaries which will prevent Murray Agnew from going from one corner of the county to the other as he volunteers his time to make sure the rules are followed at many sporting events. "He's spent much time and effort and put up with abuse as an official," said Rev. Bradley. "He's made sports clean and successful in our community."

Mr. Agnew "worked hard at home and away from home—he wasn't too parochial," said Scott as he presented the award. "He's always had that kind smile and open heart. We know a good guy when we see one."

Best Coach

In his own years as a coach of various teams, Rev. Bradley said he has come to realize that with all the team's effort, "none of it would work without a coach. I often think it requires more dedication and give than anyone else on the whole team."

Doug Garlick certainly fills these mandates as he has accepted the good with the bad during all the years he has been involved in coaching, or as Rev. Bradley said, "to give all that he knows and more." As well as his sporting activities, he added, Mr. Garlick has "given so much to every segment of the community."

Certificates of Merit

The organizers did not want to forget anyone when considering who could be the best volunteer and therefore gave certificates of merit to those people who are familiar faces at many activities in the community. The recipients are as follows: Isabel and Clyde Saunders, Fred Koster, Mac McGillivray, Elmer Hughey, Jack Bourrie and Orland Lewis.

Celebration '88 awards nights continue this week. On Thursday night at the Minden Community Centre, Anson, Hindon and Minden townships will honour their recipients while on Monday night, the Haliburton Legion will be filled with Dysart et al's dedicated community workers

Teachers organize a great event to acknowledge school's young Olympians who strive to 'be the best they can be.'

WILBERFORCE NEWS

by Winnie Schofield

History came alive for the Wilberforce school children when they renewed a custom of ancient Greece and carried the Olympic torch through the village, when they divided into groups representing various countries, made flags, competed in games and then assembled on Friday to receive their awards.

Parents, relatives and friends were on hand to applaud while cameras recorded the event. The victors stepped forward to be presented with ribbons and crests for their achievements by Bill Scott M.P.

Bill, who had just returned from the Calgary games, praised the youngsters for their accomplishments and gave each child a Canada pin from the Olympics.

The teachers showed great resourcefulness in the organizing of the four day event and it must have taken a lot of time and patience to carry out this successful plan. The children have a lasting impression of team spirit and sportsmanship.

The second part of the Friday program at the school concerned the "Celebration 88" Government of Canada awards. Council member Joyce Barras organized a committee last year to inform residents of this project and nominations were sent to all households requesting that they name those people in Monmouth who deserved recognition for participation in sports or service to the community.

Bill Scott, Federal member for Victoria Haliburton, was pleased to present Government medals to the following people: Marcie Jordens for her outstanding contribution to sports. Marcie is active with the Figure Skating Club, assists with the swim program at Lake Wilbermere and takes pride in her work with the Agricultural Society. Steven Coumbs as an outstanding male athlete with great enthusiasm for hockey and exhibiting good sportsmanship traits. Bob Anderson was recognized for his years of dedication to Minor Hockey clubs. For his work as coach, for working Summer and Winter to raise money to support the teams, for arranging transportation for the boys and coping with the trials that come with running the games. Reg Schofield for his involvement with many community enterprises, his work with hockey teams from the time that games were played on an outdoor rink, for his work with the Recreation committee that he has served on since its beginning. For Keith Tallman who for years has looked after all sport and social events of the community, ironing out the many problems and showing an interest in all local Clubs and Committees.

Murray Agnew accepted an award on behalf of the Agnew Store. Contributions from this local business have been of great value over the years. Going back to the twenties, Fred Agnew was most generous with his support of all local happenings, especially sports. Through the years the family have continued to maintain their donations to the community. Mrs. Sylvia Cameron received a framed certificate from the Government in recognition of her dedication to countless needy persons, through her work with the Red Cross and the Church, her assistance to orphans of foreign countries. She is a tireless worker and spreader of good cheer and

by Sheila Lake

Don't forget the World Day of Prayer on March 4 at Faith Tabernacle at 2:00 p.m.

The Horticulture Society met in the Anglican Church Hall on Thursday evening February 18 with 10 present. Somehow, it is difficult to get folks out to the meetings. Members were reminded that their membership is due and there is going to be an all out drive to get new members. The fee is just two dollars, less than a package of cigarettes and there is going to be a prize for the person who rounds up the most members. Don't turn down a chance to help brighten up our village, buy that two dollar membership.

It was agreed that there should be more trees in the village. Harold Alton will contact council, also Mr. Kamstra of Bowmanville, who has a nursery there and have him give advice where trees should be planted. Mr. Kamstra has spoken to members at previous meetings and is well known to members.

The Coboconk Seniors had Court Whist on Tuesday evening, rather than the usual euchre and bridge. Winners were Ken Reesor 255, Olive Auston 255, Howard Stewart 249, Peggy Saunders 296, Jenny Colquhoun 257 and Flo Lorenza 252.

Congratulations and again, congratulations to Dana and David Lee, who are richer by $158,000 since Dana's ticket in the February 10 649 Lotto draw was a winner. It couldn't have happened to niter people! Both are hard working and down to earth folks and if they had won ten million I'm sure it would not change them. To both of you, Dana and David, I hope you really enjoy the extra money and get some things you likely thought were out of reach! It's great you won and that is the feeling of everyone.

The weather sure was stormy, but still, many brave folk enjoyed the ladies hot noon meal at Knox United Church last Friday February 12. The horse sleigh rides at Balsam Lake Park on Sunday February 14 saw a good crowd out to have fun in the snow.

If you want to gamble for a good cause, the Civitan Club is raffling $200 on guesses as to when the old car on the pond will sink. Of course, its sinking will depend on the weather, but you buy a ticket and make your guess.

Don't forget the Leap Year dinner on Monday February 29, presented by the Board of Stewards at Norland United Church. First sitting is at 4:30 p.m., second sitting 6:00 p.m.

Fenelon Falls Secondary School students will be knocking at your door this month, asking for donations for the Heart Fund. If you were not home when they called, you can phone them and give your donation. For Coboconk—Jennifer Richardson, Melissa Faulkner, Tracey Bradimore, Shelly Foster and Laurie Stiff are canvassing. Colleen Janke will collect in Norland. Rosedale folk can donate to Heart Fund through Kevin Worsley.

Did you notice that dog tags for 1988 are now on sale? If you buy a tag in Somerville Township before March 31, 1988, the price is just $5. After that, it is $10.

Casey Wilson of Kinmount was thrilled to hear a happy birthday over radio CFBK—Huntsville and Bracebridge for new niece, Amanda Lyn, born just four hours before at the hospital in Orillia. Amanda Lyn weighed 8 lbs. 4 oz., the daughter of Pete and Sandy Niemi of Beaverton.

On Saturday February 13 the Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, Coboconk journeyed to Cantrington to compete in a dart tournament. There were 18 teams, 3 sections and the Coboconk Ladies team, made up by Norma Herbert, Peggy Hall, Aggie Brown and Joyce Hughes placed second in the tournament. On April 9 they will go to Frankford to play the district.

The Fitzgeralds, Dan and Joanne Weaver and Kelly and Sandra Weaver have been holidaying in Mexico.

Party was a surprise WEST GUILFORD

by Eleanor Cooper

Happy belated greetings to Alma Morrison and to Blanche Linton.

Alma had her daughter Nila Reynolds with her. Other special company included Carrie Drysdale, Betty and Cecil Morrison, and the Perry Morrisons.

Eve Stata planned the surprise party in the lounge of the Parkdale Apartments for Mrs. Linton. Her guests included Bob and Norma Crozier, Lois and Cecil Titus, and Stan and Myrtle. Local people who brought greetings were Elva, Sid and Louise Cooper, Leon, Alice and Annie Jones, Eve Griffin, Eva Malarczyna and, of course, the friends old and new at the apartments. Our best wishes to both of you ladies.

Bill Burden, Gerald Bain, Brant Stamp and Dwight Sisson are on a brief holiday to Las Vegas.

Another reminder or two: the March 5 Snow Shuffle from 1:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. and the February 27 invitation by Phrona Sisson to meet her niece from England.

Intended for last week

First of all, a correction re Stanhope Firehall Bingo—the Bingo Queen donation is 50 cents to the pot, not from each person when the number is called. Phone Lottie Ruttan 754-2770 for further details and clarification.

Mrs. Phrona Sisson's niece, daughter of her brother, Willard Barry will be visiting at Phrona's on February 27. She would like anyone who wishes to come to feel free to visit Joe and Alison Gibbs of England while they are on this brief visit to the country. Friends and relatives are welcome during the day or evening.

Two notes of sympathy are in order. Those who knew Frank and Iris Taylor who owned Hillcrest Haven several years ago will be sorry to learn of the very sudden death of Frank last Wednesday.

Gerry and Diane Johnson of Maple Lake, well known to the Sisson clan because of Gerry's mother (who was Winnie, nee Sisson), lost their son tragically in a drowning accident last week. Our deepest sympathy to both the Taylor and the Johnson families in their bereavement.

The Home Support Services brochure informs us that the person to contact for Wheels to Meals in Alice Martin 754-3173. Meals are available in regard to this at the Guilford Restaurant on alternate Tuesdays at noon.

As part of week-long activities to celebrate the Winter Olympics, the students of Victoria Street School formed teams of various nationalities and paraded through the streets of downtown Haliburton on Thursday. Crowds of well-wishers and parents cheered them along the way

W.I. discusses heritage

By Mary Cox

The February meeting of the Women's Institute of Minden was held at the Library Culture Centre with Mrs. C. Lacey, President, presiding. After the usual opening 17 members and one visitor answered the roll call, naming a township and its county in Ontario. Reports were given, collections for the Card Fund and Pennies for Friendships were taken.

A workshop for co-ordinators, a new convener in the W.I. is being held in Kingston in May and Mrs. Denzil Cox will attend this meeting.

Mrs. J. Hulbig, convener for Education and Cultural Activities, introduced Stan Hill, who is chairman of the Museum committee. He has had interviews with several people in the area which he recorded on tape with his camera. He showed us one of these interviews with Mrs. A. Taylor and Mrs. A. Kernohan, who were teachers at the Scotch Line School. This was in depression times, quite different from today's standards in the schools. Pictures of logging, thrashing machines were included, also the couple's ancestors which made it all very interesting.

The meeting adjourned and Mrs. C. Wilson was auctioneer for sale of crafts and baking. Tea and lunch was served by the committee.

Next meeting at the same location will be March 16 at 2:00 p.m. with all ladies welcome.

Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home begins its 4th year with funeral association.

The International Order of the Golden Rule, an association for reputable funeral directors, has recently announced that Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home in Minden is beginning its 4th consecutive year of membership in the Order. To continue membership, each funeral home must meet the same strict professional standards required for admittance into the Order.

To make their membership possible, Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home had to receive recommendations from local residents, clergy and other OGR members. Prior to membership, inspection of the funeral home is required, along with 100% approval by IOGR's Board of Directors. The Order has over 1500 members internationally.

"As a result of the positive response we've received from the Haliburton County area Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home has proven its worthiness to be counted among our members," stated Dale L. Rollings, Executive Director.

"We're proud of each and every member and what they strive to offer the communities they serve."

Members of OGR are encouraged to follow a strict code of ethics which include: believing in the application of the Golden Rule; regarding and respecting the reverent care of the human body, those bereaved, and the overall spiritual dignity of man; pledging to serve any deserving family in time of need, regardless of monetary consideration; respecting all faiths, creeds and customs; and maintaining and providing to the public complete facilities and equipment, including a highly competent and well qualified staff.

The Order of the Golden Rule was founded in 1928 and is based on the motto: "Service measured not by gold, but by the Golden Rule."

1988 BRINGS TWO IMPORTANT CHANGES TO THE ONTARIO FARM TAX REBATE PROGRAM

CHANGE NUMBER ONE:

The Ontario Farm Tax Rebate program now makes two payments a year to farmers and farm property owners, compared to one annual payment previously.

CHANGE NUMBER TWO:

Those eligible for the program will receive two forms to complete—one in the spring and the second one in early fall. Each must be completed and returned to obtain each payment.

Completing the first form will generate a payment of approximately 50% of the total 1988 rebate based on the previous year's eligible tax levy.

Completing the second form will result in a second payment for the balance of the property owners' 1988 rebate and will be based on the owners' actual 1988 eligible tax levy.

WHAT STAYS THE SAME

The Ontario Farm Tax Rebate program is designed to ease the tax burden faced by farmers.

Farmers are not required to pre-pay a portion of their municipal taxes to qualify for the rebate.

100% of municipal taxes on eligible farm land and outbuildings may be rebated. No rebate will be paid for taxes levied on farm residences and one acre of land.

There will be no reassessment of farm properties unless changes to the property that would normally require reassessment are made.

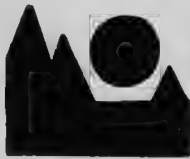

For more information about the Ontario Farm Tax Rebate program and the changes, contact:

Minden council briefs...

MUNICIPAL NOTES

Anson, Hindon and Minden Council considered the following matters at its most recent meeting: John Stainton was present to discuss the result of the Ontario Municipal Board Hearing on the hotel site. He also asked if Council would consider selling the piece of property adjacent to his property, so that he could put an entrance in for the hotel. Council advised him to bring in an Offer to Purchase and they would consider the document. Also, the "Minden" sign was to remain on that property and the grass was to be cut. Proper drainage easements are to be on title. Should the hotel not go through, the property must be deeded back to the Township.

Council agreed to proceed with the Energy Conservation Grant, with a total of 1987 project cost estimate at $72,160.

Programs of Proposed Expenditures for the Roads Department of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden for 1988 were approved: Regular 1988 Expenditures $527,772. (Maintenance—$457,772.; Construction—$70,000.). Supplementary Expenditures: Scotch Line Road—$50,000.; New pickup 4x4 with plow—$21,000.; Brady Lake Culverts—$17,000.

Council approved the following allocations of reserve funds for year ending 1987: (unaudited)—

Property $4,600.; Museum $7,500.; Carnarvon $6,000.; Gallery $3,691.; Zoning $9,500. Roads surplus to capital equipment. Parks surplus to Parks Reserve.

Council accepted the tender of Totten, Sims, Hubicki Associates in the amount of $5,100.

Tenders received for a road management study: Barker, Terp, Gibson—$5,900.; Totten, Sims, Hubicki Associates $5,100.; Greer Galloway Group $5,900.; Triton Engineering—Declined.

Council agreed to have the Clerk arrange a meeting with the HCSA in regard to proper markings for trails.

Council approved Staanworth Housing Non-Profit Corporation resolution that Mary Mysyk be appointed as director on the Board.

Council instructed the Clerk to advise Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ackerblade about the status of the Park on Twelve Mile Lake.

Council instructed the Clerk to request the Ministry of Natural Resources to ban all motors on Mirror Lake.

COMMUNITY NEWS

Sympathies extended to local families

CARNARVON NEWS

by Ann McKay

I'm sorry no news from this area appeared in last week's paper, but the fault does not lie with me as the news arrived at the office in time, they apparently ran out of space.

The next meeting of the U.C.W. will be held on Wednesday March 3 at the usual time in the Christian Education Building.

Jack and Hazel Gregory and Joan Fennell were in Toronto Monday and Tuesday attending the funeral of Jack's niece, his brother's oldest daughter who died on the weekend. We extend the communities sympathies to the family.

Our sympathies also to the family of Duncan Prentice who died on Monday at the Minden Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Spending the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barnhart, were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Watson and two boys from Bridgorth and Gail Barnhart of Brampton.

Intended for last week

The opening ceremonies of the Olympic Winter Games in Calgary were packed with pride for this great country. It was difficult at times to swallow the lump in one's throat. What a pity the world at large cannot come together in the same spirit as these young athletes.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fletcher on becoming grandparents again. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Marlow (Cindy) on January 25, named Paige Melissa.

On Wednesday February 10 the U.C.W. held their monthly meeting in the form of a pot luck supper. Gifts were gathered for the family of Murray Burton.

Our sympathies to Cliff Skelding and family. Cliff received a call on Sunday; his brother Charles Lawrence Skelding of Montreal had died very suddenly while vacationing in the South. After going out to get the morning paper, he spoke a few words to his wife, then died. He is survived by his wife and only brother Cliff.

Has anyone out there a square Corning Ware lid seven inches across they would be willing to sell? Phone 489-2924.

Happy belated birthday to Mrs. Joe (Alice) Voicoy who was 70 years young on Sunday February 13. Family from Lindsay and Toronto were there to help her celebrate.

A Valentine supper was held at Hyland Crest on Friday when residents invited a guest each to enjoy an evening meal and entertainment.

I just heard on the radio that the Minister of Tourism is going to pour a few more million dollars into attracting Americans to Canada. I would like to give him a tip free. Don't mention the price of a gallon of gas and don't say one word about the cost of a case of beer, both of which are used by holiday makers, not all of them, of course.

The general meeting of the County Home Services will be held on February 19 at the Drop-In Centre, Haliburton.

Sympathies of the community are extended to Henry Howe and family on the death of his wife Vera. Mrs. Howe passed away on Monday February 15 at Peterborough Hospital.

Penny Bird and Alan Northey were married at PineStone Inn (Ballroom) with Rev. John Smith officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Bird of Haliburton and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Les Northey of Minden. Linda Mintz was matron of honour, and the bridesmaids were Barb Barker, Lori Roberts and Shawna Atkinson. Allan Kellett was best man and the ushers were Barry Ward, Jim Bird and Carl Northey. The flower girl was Kori Roberts, and the ring bearer was Brian Montanaro. A reception was held at Haliburton Royal Canadian Legion. The couple is now residing in Sarnia.

Slim and Lola Mortensen of Courtenay, B.C. are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter Jann Avis to Timothy Darek Bain, son of Royce and Dorothy Bain of Haliburton. Tim and Jan are both members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The wedding will take place at Courtenay in June.

Formal dinner a success

SENIOR LEAGUE

by Pearl Lyle

Dear Readers: It's a beautiful day after the rain and snow. The crow's are here! Same old "Caw" as last year.

Our services were held by Rev. J. Burgess and Rev. Moll of the Minden United Church.

I am sorry to report Mary Oliver and Ruby Lewis still on the sick list.

Our formal dinner was very successful. We were disappointed that Mr. and Mrs. Norman Clements couldn't get here but the weather was just too bad for a lot of people. We hope they will come some time soon. Earle Cooper and the Scottish Dancers came on Wednesday night and were certainly enjoyed by everyone.

We had current events Tuesday afternoon. I wasn't able to attend but I understand it was very interesting and informative.

I'm sorry folks that this is such a short piece of news, but I am not able to get around to collect more this morning. Birthdays for February were Mrs.

Precoor, Ruby Lewis, Margaret Gainforth and Marjorie Shuyler.

See you next week.

I think true love is never blind, but, rather, brings an added light, an inner vision quick to find

The beauties hidden from common sight.

Programs announced
COUNTY LIBRARY

by Joel Levis

The Wilberforce, Bicroft and Minden Branches of the Haliburton County Public Library will be presenting a special programme for children during March School Break on Wednesday March 16, 1988.

Alex Sinclair will be presenting a special programme of selected music for the younger set that is sure to amuse and entertain. Included may be such selections as "Big Joe Mufferaw", "It's the B'y", "Puff, the Magic Dragon" and "There's a Hole in the Bottom of the Sea."

Alex has been performing professionally for over fifteen years and has toured extensively as guitarist and singer with the band Tamarack—a group which specializes in the traditional folk music of Canada.

Alex performs with guitar, banjo and ukulele and has a broad repertoire of folk songs both traditional and modern from which to draw. Alex keeps the show light and upbeat with songs, stories and audience participation.

Performances are scheduled for 10:00 a.m. in Bicroft; 1:00 p.m. in Wilberforce and 3:30 p.m. in Minden.

Library is renovated

that had been occupied by the county library office will enhance the local library's services.

The Dysart branch will be closed for the next two weeks so the building's interior can be gutted. New ceilings, drywall, lighting fixtures and additional shelving will be installed during renovations.

Levis said he anticipates that there will be more books on the shelves when the branch reopens — material formerly shelved in the building's basement, as well as new acquisitions that are circulated among the nine county branches.

More space also should enable the Dysart branch to offer new programmes, Levis said, including story hours and other activities for children. Hours may also be lengthened or altered in response to public need, Levis said. One possible change is to open the branch over the lunch hour, for the convenience of users.

Levis said he thinks library users will be pleased with the results of the renovations.

"Anybody who comes in is going to see a big difference" he said.

every Community should have someone like her.

After the ceremonies Bill Scott presented an Olympic flag to Joyce Barras for the Township. Everyone was invited to refreshments prepared by members of the organizing committee.

Some 22 teams took part in the Dart Tournament held on Sunday February 14 at the Community Centre. First place in the trials went to Mike and Bonnie Scogan of Coe Hill, second place to Gena Robinson and Claude Vachon of Wilberforce, third place to Brenda and Paul Generous of Bancroft and fourth place to Barry and Bonnie Jackson of Coe Hill. This sport is gaining in popularity. If you would like to join one of the clubs get in touch with Rick Pringle of Moonlight Bay at 448-2525.

Gilbert Rowley's Highland Grove Euchre game report gives the highs to Goldie Harrison and David Larence, lone hands to Irma Dunford and Sulo Soper, lows to Evelyn Bowen and Gilbert Rowley and traveller's prize to Gilbert Harrison.

Laila and Andy Hillo run a popular tourist resort known as Sandy Acres. Their campground and cottages are on Elephant Lake. They have a newly listed telephone number that is not in any of our phone books. They would like friends to write this number down as they welcome calls: 448-2372.

The South Algonquin Fish and Game Club will be holding their monthly meeting in the Highland Grove Recreation Centre on February 26 at 8:00 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

News just received says that Wilberforce could be very close to having another enterprise to serve the area. On March 10 a public hearing will take place at the Municipal office to determine the rezoning of a town lot to commercial to permit the construction of a laundromat and confectionery outlet. The laundromat is a much needed facility to serve the area and help retain and attract business. The promoters, Kendeen Enterprise, state that because of the high cost of waste disposal the confectionery outlet is a must to generate income. They state that there are many new lines of merchandise to be handled which will add to and not affect local business. It is hoped that this project will get a positive green light and plans will then be completed for a summer opening. With the support of the town people and local businesses this long awaited service will enjoy a successful operation.

Hockey calendars are now available and may be picked up at the arena snack bar, Alan Ablett or from Ann Alden. Cost is $6. It's for a good cause.

Looking to the future we should all be prepared for that great moment when Haliburton, Ontario's finest tourist area, is the chosen spot for the Winter Olympic Games. We have our arenas, curling rinks, cross country ski trails and that big slide in the Haliburton village is ideal for the lure. We also have a new sport to attract. The big Jump and Bump with its breath-taking action, where drivers race over that strip of highway 648 that lies between Wilberforce and Harcourt. What a challenge to the Russian team as they risk their lives on this treacherous stretch. Thousands of thrilled onlookers will hold their breath as one bump after another hurls the vehicles skyward, jolting the driver on to the next rocky projection before tearing the engine apart. What a unique experience for the crowds of visitors to be housed comfortably in those cosy fish huts on our frozen lakes. The idea calls for immediate attention.

Some entertaining hockey was played on February 21 when the Novice Tournament took over Monmouth Arena. There was a tie for the "C" Division Championship when Wilberforce and Haliburton finished with three goals each. A shoot out was lucky for Wilberforce which gave them the trophy. Most valuable player for Wilberforce was Ryan Montgomery and for Haliburton Jeremy Travis.

Championship for the "B" division was won by Haliburton in a 2-1 game with Apsley. John Herbert was Haliburton's most valuable player and Steven Doran most valuable player for Apsley.

In the "A" division it was Bancroft IGA the Champions when they shut out Bancroft Robinson team with a score of 3-0. Most valuable player of this match was Tyler Harvey for IGA and Cory Easten for Robinson.

Jim Alden gives a vote of thanks to all supportive spectators and to sponsors Dan Matthews, Bob Parks and the Wilberforce Minor hockey executive. Very much appreciated was the help given by George Eastman in setting up the tournament.

Minor Hockey will host a St. Patrick dance on March 19 with music by D.J.

HOME SUPPORT

By K. Hodgson-McMahon

Are you age 55 or more and afraid to go outside and walk for exercise and want to improve your overall health and feelings of "wellness"?

If yes is your reply, come out and join Haliburton County Home Support Services Drop-In Centre Line Dancers. (Technically this is a low-impact aerobic fitness class for men and women.)

A group of eight dedicated enthusiasts have been learning new dances and practising once a week at St. George's Anglican Church Hall, Haliburton. This group made their debut on Monday February 8 at the Second Annual Winter Games held at Deer Lodge Resort. The same week the Haliburton Seniors Club invited the Line Dancers to attend their weekly meeting and provide a demonstration. (The Haliburton Seniors Club meet every Thursday at the Haliburton Legion for a luncheon meeting.) We, at Home Support are proud of this group and wish to congratulate them on their marvelous efforts to date.

At this point the group would like to invite anyone interested or curious to come out and try this activity held Thursday morning at 10:00 a.m. in St. George's Anglican Church Hall, Haliburton. We're looking forward to seeing you!

Nada's Kitchen

"But for you who revere my name, the sun of righteousness will rise with healing in its wings." Malachi 4:2

by Nada Vaughan

A few of you have asked for more quick bread and loaf recipes. These three are a little different but worth experimenting with. Enjoy!

CINNAMON BREAD

- 2 cups flour
- 1 cup white sugar
- 2 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. baking soda
- 1-1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 cup sour milk or buttermilk*
- 1/4 cup oil
- 2 eggs
- 2 tsp. vanilla

Measure all ingredients in order given into a large mixing bowl. Beat 3 minutes. Pour into greased loaf pan (9x5x3"). Smooth top. Sprinkle with topping.

TOPPING

- 2 tbsp. white sugar
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 tsp. butter or margarine

Combine all ingredients, mixing until crumbly. Sprinkle over smoothed batter. Using knife, cut in a light swirling motion to give a marbled effect. Bake at 350 degrees for about 50 minutes or until done. (Test with toothpick.) Remove from pan to cool on rack.

* To make sour milk, add milk to 1 tbsp. vinegar to measure 1 cup.

POPPY SEED LOAF

- 1/4 cup poppy seeds
- 3/4 cup milk
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 3/4 cup white sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 tsp. lemon juice
- 2 cups flour
- 2-1/2 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 cup maraschino cherries, well drained and halved

Mix poppy seeds and milk in small bowl. Let stand for 30 minutes. Combine butter, sugar, and 1 egg in mixing bowl. Beat well. Add second egg and lemon juice. Beat until smooth. Stir in poppy seed mixture. Measure flour, baking powder, salt and cherries together in a small bowl. Mix well. Stir into batter until just moistened. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Pour glaze over top. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan to cool on cake rack.

BROWN SUGAR GLAZE

- 5 tbsp. brown sugar
- 2 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 2 tbsp. cream or milk
- 2 tbsp. crushed nuts

Combine sugar, butter and cream in small saucepan. Bring to boil and simmer 3 minutes. Spoon over hot loaf. Sprinkle with nuts.

FAVOURITE NUT LOAF (This will become your favourite too!)

- 8 oz. cream cheese, softened at room temperature
- 1/3 cup white sugar
- 1 egg 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup cooking oil
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 tbsp. grated lemon rind
- 2-1/4 cups flour
- 1/3 cup white sugar
- 1/3 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 cup chopped walnuts

Beat cheese, sugar and one egg together well. Set aside. Beat remaining two eggs in mixing bowl until frothy. Mix in oil, milk and lemon rind. In another bowl measure in remaining six ingredients. Stir to mix well. Pour all at once into egg-milk mixture. Stir until moistened. Spoon 1/2 batter into greased loaf pan. Spoon on cheese mixture. Cover with remaining batter by dropping small spoonfuls here and there. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until done. Cool 15 minutes in pan before turning out very carefully to cool.

Novices stage comeback after a 4-1 defeat

The Haliburton Spectra Novice II team suffered a 4-1 defeat against the Apsley Novice hockey club on Saturday. Haliburton's single goal was scored by Billy Dovell.

The Haliburton team recovered their loss by winning the "B" Championship title in a Novice tournament in Wilberforce on Sunday. Haliburton played three good games of hockey with excellent goal tending by Greg Schell.

Goal scorers during the tournament for Haliburton were Jon Hebert with one, Joshua Burk with seven and Matthew Burk with two. Assists were awarded to Luke Cowen, Curtis Reynolds, Billy Dovell and Matthew Burk.

High school skiers set personal bests

H.H.S.S. Nordic Skiers posted a series of personal best times at Kawartha Ski meet last Wednesday in Haliburton at the PineStone Olympic trail.

Laurie Smith finished second in Midget girls, Eric Nash finished fourth in Midget Boys, and Matt Creelman finished 14th in Senior Boys 10 K.

The Junior girls team of Karen Elstone, Karen Charleton, Liza Robinson and Sarah Stouffer finished second overall.

All Senior girls posted personal bests. Lindsey Tashlin was 12th, Lesley Tashlin 13th and Laura Cross was 14th, taking four minutes off of her time at the COSSA meet last week.

The Senior girls team placed second overall in the meet.

COMMUNITY NEWS

Carnival a great show, lots of fun and good eating

KINMOUNT NEWS

by Millie Moss

Helen Graham, John Pyke and I joined in with the large crowd who attended the Norland Winter Carnival at Ward Park, Norland, on Valentines Day. Some of the skaters who were from Coboconk, Norland, Minden, Haliburton and Kinmount, I'm sure, will some day make it to the Olympics. There was a hockey game with Coboconk taking the trophy away from the Norland team, a lively game of broom-ball and again Coboconk won out, running races on ice for the little guys plus a tricycle race for pre-schoolers on ice.

All the time, two large horses were kept busy outside, pulling a haywagon round and round the large track and I'm sure almost everyone took a free ride on that. Some of the young boys spent the whole day just going on that horse and wagon ride!

There were three jars of candies and peanuts which you could mark your guess as to how many each jar contained. The hot dogs and hot chocolate at twenty-five cents each were absolutely delicious. Thanks Norland for a grand day and thanks too, to all the people who made it possible. I even met a few people there I hadn't seen in years.

Nora Bryant of Norland was the winner of the Norland Volunteer Firemens hockey pool on Saturday February 13.

Congratulations to Dana and Dave Lee on their recent win in the Lotto 649. It couldn't happen to nicer people!

Win Wilson of RRI, Kinmount received a phone call one evening last week from her family, son Al

Brady, his wife Ruth and their daughters Sarah and Meghan in Kispipox Valley, British Columbia. There was really no special reason for the call except that they were wondering if grandma was alright or if possibly she'd gone 'round the bend' so to speak. They had received a letter/card in that afternoon's mail from Win and in it she had asked how little Sarah and the baby were doing. As the baby is five years old, they thought grandma was going funny. Turned out the letter was dated 1983! Through wind and snow, etc. our mail sure gets through!

Results of St. James euchre Tuesday February 16: ladies high, Vi Cooke, who also held most lone hands, ladies low, Nora Swinson, mens high, Win Wilson, mens low, Lloyd Crego.

Happy birthday to Ann Rivers.

A happy belated birthday to Nora Crego who was 80 years young on Saturday February 13. Nora would like to thank her son Lloyd and daughter Jean for the lovely party held at Kinmount Seniors Railroad Drop-In Centre and all those who attended the dinner and afternoon tea. Thanks also for the many cards, gifts, flowers and best wishes. Special thanks to all who helped in any way to make the party and Nora's special day, a grand success.

Welcome home to Barb, Reg and Dan McCluney of Kinmount who recently spent a well deserved holiday in Puerto Vallarte, Mexico. Barb reports the weather was just gorgeous and she'd love to go back there next year.

Each Tuesday evening beginning at 7:30 p.m. enjoy the new daubers bingo at Lions Community Centre in Kirkfield, Coboconk Legion bingo is Thursday evening at same time and Kinmount Legion has bingo every Friday evening, also at 7:30 p.m.

Meals on Wheels program provides a hot nourishing meal three times a week at special prices for the elderly and handicapped persons. For further information in Kinmount area give Win Wilson a call at 488-2526.

Haliburton County Home Support Services has a purpose and that is to enable the elderly and handicapped persons to remain independent in their own homes for a longer period.

Happy birthday to Ann Cain. I hope your day was a happy one!

Jeanne Sears of Minden underwent surgery in hospital last week and we're hoping to hear you're on the mend very soon, Jeanne.

Welcome home to Elizabeth Fryer, Anne Spencer and her son Brock who have recently spent a couple weeks in Florida.

Well folks, stay well and happy, read the Echo and give me a call at 488-2353.

Late note: Results of the six tables plus three of euchre games, Thursday February 18, at the Kinmount Seniors Railroad Drop-In Centre were: ladies high, Lil Taylor, ladies low, Ruby Holbrook, mens high, Garland Barkwell, mens low, Bob Allen, lone hands, Bill Menard.

Once again it has come to my attention that I write of other places more than Kinmount and once again I say, let me know what you're doing, celebrating, etc. and

I'll be only too pleased to send it on. Some people even tell me stories and then stand back as though they've committed a cardinal sin in telling me and then say "don't put that in the paper!" It's up to you Kinmount, my phone number is here every week and the only Moss listed in Kinmount.

Winter activities keep everyone happy

DORSET NEWS

by Phyllis Briscoe

Apparently the weather predicting ground hogs, Willie and Phil, didn't see their shadows on February 2, which is supposed to indicate an early spring. I guess we can all appreciate that, if it so happens. Winter is almost half over and hasn't been a problem so far. It has been beautiful. I'm sure the people who ski have had a great time, and according to the number of snow machines that have been buzzing around, the folks who man them must be having a hey-day.

Droves or herds or whatever groups of the machines are called go by my place, gather on the ice, then take off in a contingent across the lake, destination unknown. Then, at night a long line of lights are seen in the distance, and shortly, looking like seeing eyes, they arrive at the shore and go out the drive, heading for home or a warm up party, whatever. One can have vicarious enjoyment following their activities.

It's nice to have Andy

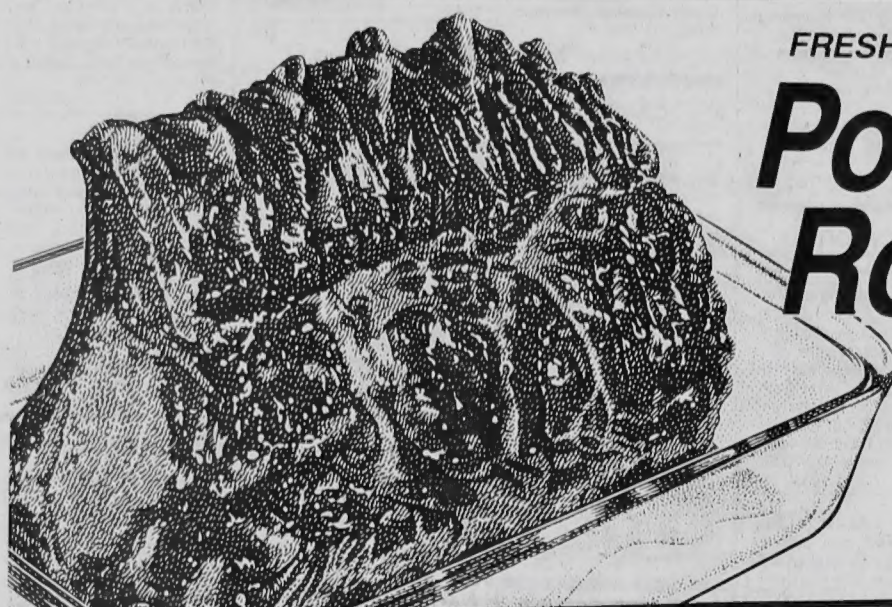

(Eldred) MacKay home and participating in her usual activities at the Social Club. Eldred has been on a visit with friends in Havelock and Kingston.

Some February birthdays have been celebrated recently. Many more happy ones to Daisy Townsend on the 15th and to John Derry on the 16th. And we wish Rhoda and Walter Taylor happy anniversary, which they celebrated on the 12th. I believe that was the 59th, just another to the big 60. Congratulations are certainly in order.

The Dorset Senior Club is enjoying an influx of new members, the membership now numbering 50 plus. Admittedly, a number of the members are spending some time in warmer climes, but the turnouts are still substantial. Over and above the regular meetings on Wednesday afternoons, there are several craft sessions on other days. These include stained glass, lapidary and quilting which are enjoyed by those participating. The Club just passed its tenth birthday and has certainly been an asset to those over 50, (the age one has to be to be eligible to join) in the community.
